Prevent Landing of 42,000 Troops for Shanghai War

CLAIM SHIPS SUNK

Invaders Demolish Villages Along the Yangtze River

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS
Shanghai—The explosions of hidden Chinese mines and withering fire from secret machine gun nests riddled Japanese regular army landing parties today and prevented, at least for the time being, the embarkation of 42,000 Japanese troops for the Shanghai war.

Heavy losses of Japanese advance forces slowed up or possibly halted altogether further troop landing until a more favorable moment arrives.

An official Chinese announcement said 500 Japanese soldiers out of 1,500 who tried to land at one point, Wentsaoang, had drowned in the Whangpoo and that the remainder were driven back to their ships. The announcement also said two Japanese warships had foundered off Tsungming island in the Yangtze.

War maps found on a captured Japanese officer disclosed a Japanese plan to land troops along the entire Chinese coast from Lihuo to Nanwei and then advance on Shanghai for the final drive to wipe out Chinese forces.

Apparently furious because of the setback, Japanese demolished Chinese villages along the Yangtze with a naval barrage and scores of aerial bombs.

The villages were deathtraps. The countryside was as barren as a cemetery.

With the Japanese offensive against Shanghai at least temporarily paralyzed, distant Chinese howitzer batteries smashed at Japanese warships in the Whangpoo and Yangtze.

Accurate Fire

Military observers said the German-trained Chinese gun crews hurled shells with "surprising accuracy."

The Chinese artillery fusillade drove the United States destroyer from its post off Gough island where it was guarding the Texas Oil company plant near the confluence of Yangtze and Whangpoo rivers.

Great fires raged meantime in three sections of Shanghai.

Some foreign observers estimated the toll in the two weeks of fighting in and about Shanghai as more than 100,000 killed and wounded. Officially compiled casualties in the international area totaled 1,160, including 1,760 dead.

55,000 New Troops

Trustworthy information from American and British official quarters was that Japanese troop ships brought a total of 55,000 reinforcements to the Yangtze mouth.

Of these, 4,000 landed at Paoshan, 6,000 at Lihuo, 2,000 at Woosung and 1,000 at Yangtzeport.

The remaining 42,000 still were aboard ship, waiting until the Japanese command decides it is safe to land.

It was approximately the same number of troops Japan sent to Shanghai for the 1932 warfare. But British and American observers

Lion's Roar Was Terrible

By swearing off smoking for a year, the wives of some members of the Cheyenne, Wyo., Lions Club raised a goodly sum for charity.

That's to say, they swore their husbands off smoking. No doubt the husbands, just as to how they swore, off or at, dependent sayeth not. That was a year ago, says the story we read. So now it is timely to mention that even more money can be saved by using the classified want-ads. This one, from The Post-Crescent proved it.

Rebel Chiefs Announce Fall Of Santander

Report City Officially Submits Statement of Surrender

RULE NORTH COAST

Only Small Area to be Taken to Complete Conquest of Area

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier—Insurgent officials today announced the surrender of Santander, last remaining government stronghold on the northwest Spanish coast.

Advices from insurgent field headquarters said government authorities in the city officially handed over a notice of surrender.

Then insurgent motorized troops landed and drove ahead to enter the city. Late this afternoon, a strong detachment was only three miles from Santander proper.

Fall of the city was hastened by street fighting of the city's civil guard, a part of its police, and some of the civilian population rushed government troops, demanding immediate capitulation to insurgents.

So swift was the insurgent advance that 5,000 government militia men were believed caught in a pocket formed southeast of the city by onrushing insurgent troops.

Insurgent commanders announced that all 15,000 government troops remaining in Santander submitted to the decision to surrender.

Conquest of the city gave insurgent forces virtually complete control of the northeastern half of Spain. The drive to conquer the entire Biscay coast started last September with the fall of San Sebastian and Irun.

Includes Big Region

It was not until June 19 that insurgents swept into the basque capital of Bilbao.

Hundreds of square miles of mountainous territory and scores of mining and industrial villages were captured.

With the fall of Santander the insurgents have only a small slice of territory to the west to capture before they can complete domination of the northern coast.

Revolt of insurgent sympathizers within Santander, insurgent reports said, paved the way for the advance of the conquerors, who had advanced for the last powerful columns and joined forces yesterday for a final direct assault.

Jose Antonio de Aguirre, president of the Basque republic, arrived safely at Bayonne, France, with other members of his government who had fled from the city.

They had gone to Santander shortly before insurgents captured Bilbao.

No Agreement at Railroad Parley

86 Major Roads Refuse to Accede to Demands for 20 Pct. Pay Boost

Chicago—The conference between representatives of 350,000 railroad operating employees and their employers broke up today with refusal by 86 major railroads to accede to demands for a flat 20 per cent wage increase.

A statement from the representatives of the big five operating brotherhoods said the action leaves no alternative but to set the day and hour for the men to withdraw from service in accordance with the authority given in a strike ballot in which 97 per cent of the workers represented by these organizations (the brotherhoods) voted in favor of strike unless a satisfactory disposition of the request for increases in rates of pay was obtained.

H. A. Enoch, chairman of the carriers' conference committee, which has been conferring with the union delegates three weeks, made public his group's decision with an announcement that such an increase would be "ruinous" to the carriers and that they "cannot stand even an 8 cents an hour boost."

Enoch's committee of 15 represents 36 systems.

Electric Service Is Disrupted by Birds

Madison—A stern order from the public service commission to "get off the lines" undoubtedly would be forthcoming if officials could speak bird language.

An unusual number of interruptions of service on electric lines is causing headaches this summer to the service departments of Wisconsin utilities.

Giants Defeat Cubs; Cut Lead to 3 Games

New York—The Giants cut the Chicago Cubs National league lead to three games today by scoring five runs in the ninth and adding in the eleventh to squeeze through with an 8 to 7 victory in the opening of a doubleheader.

Delegates Try To End Rift in U. A. W. Ranks

Consider Plan to Abolish Secret or Pre-Convention Caucuses

HARMONY CHIEF AIM

Lawyer Says Congress Revealed 'Hypocrites, Enemies of Labor'

Milwaukee—United Automobile Workers' convention delegates tackled the problem of factional strife today with a move to abolish secret or pre-convention caucuses.

The proposal, after heated debate, was referred back to the resolutions committee, however, on a motion offered by Richard Frankenstein, candidate for first vice president of the union on the so-called progressive faction's ticket.

A series of resolutions dealing with factionalism, division and caucuses had been offered by local unions but the committee submitted a substitute calling simply for abolishing pre-convention caucuses within the international union.

Debate began immediately and was summed up by Frankenstein and Victor Reuther of Detroit.

Reuther said the purpose of the abolishment proposal was to prevent the "bad situation" that arose at this convention and to solidify and preserve harmony.

Says Plan "Undemocratic"

Frankenstein said the measure was "undemocratic" and members should have the privilege of expressing opinions in caucuses if they desired.

A New York lawyer associated with the Tom Mooney cases told the United Automobile Workers' convention today the recently adjourned congress "was useful because it exposed more hypocrites and enemies of labor than any other."

The attorney, Frank P. Walsh, added that the congressional session also "exposed the biggest mess in the history of the country's history."

The convention's tempo slowed today while the delegates awaited the reports of their resolutions and constitution committees.

The meeting adopted one resolution which urged employment of every effort through collective bargaining to obtain two-week vacations with pay for all automotive industry workers.

"Cooling Off"

A CIO chieftain said today factional strife within the United Automobile Workers of America was "cooling off" as the membership rallied for a fight which its militant president declared would "lick Henry Ford."

Enthusiastic delegates to the U. A. W. convention cheered President Homer Martin's prediction "Henry Ford, or someone for him, will sign an agreement with the U. A. W."

"We'll get the agreement, no matter what it costs or what it takes," Martin told the convention in his annual report late yesterday as he challenged Ford "get ready" to put the union label on his cars "if he turns to page 19 col. 8."

Fine Black Creek Man $1,000, Costs

Louis Wichmann Penalized For State Liquor Law Violation

Louis Wichmann, town of Black Creek, was fined $1,000 and costs and given an alternative of three years in state prison at Waupun in the upper branch of municipal court this morning by Judge Thomas H. Ryan when he pleaded guilty of manufacturing intoxicating liquor without a state treasury department permit.

Wichmann was arrested by agents of the state treasury department, who charged they purchased a quantity of liquor from Wichmann. M. F. Reine, Madison, state treasury agent, signed the complaint.

Wichmann waived preliminary hearing, was arraigned in the lower branch of municipal court before Judge Ryan, pleaded guilty and was bound over to the upper branch. Judge Ryan then imposed the fine with an alternative of three years in state prison at Waupun. Wichmann indicated he would pay the fine.

A glimpse at the special Dollar day edition of the Appleton Post-Crescent is enough to show that it would be no crime to shake a few coins out of Junior's piggy bank because purchases at any of the 60 leading retail stores cooperating in the sales event Thursday will be worth double the value of the coins.

Roosevelt to Continue Efforts for Changes In U. S. Supreme Court

Capital Thinks Special Session Sure This Fall

Roosevelt Considers Arguments but Makes No Announcement

Washington—The capital—aside from President Roosevelt—accepted today as a virtual certainty a fall session of congress to consider farm and wage-hour legislation.

Mr. Roosevelt said he was considering the arguments for and against a special session, but had not made up his mind.

He conferred yesterday with Senator Barkley of Kentucky and Representative Rayburn, the senate and house majority leaders, on the question.

Neither would comment afterwards on his probable decision. Barkley said he did not wish to "impinge on his (Mr. Roosevelt's) preserves."

How administration leaders, however, feel have predicted a special session, among them Speaker Bankhead (D-Ala.) and Senator Guffey (D-Pa.).

A sizeable group of Democrats, including many who wielded power in the last session, let it be known they were flatly opposed to coming back to Washington this year.

They explained they were particularly eager to give the wave of minor-party dissension, which grew bitter in debate on supreme court and wage-hour legislation, time to die down.

This group also took the stand that none of the side-tracked legislation was of such pressing importance it could not wait until January.

Mr. Roosevelt dodged yesterday at a press conference a question as to whether he will tour the country to rally support for measures he wishes congress to enact.

He did say he will go to his home at Hyde Park tomorrow night for the weekend. One administration leader offered as a probable guess that he will decide before he returns whether to call a special session.

Indiana Senator Sees McNutt as President

Washington—Senator Minton (D-Ind.) predicted today that Paul V. McNutt, American high commissioner to the Philippines, will be nominated by the Democrats in 1940 to succeed President Roosevelt.

The Indiana senator, a New Deal stalwart who is close both to the president and McNutt, said he did not believe Mr. Roosevelt would run for a third term.

Minton's eyes flashed as he enthused in an interview over the former Indiana governor's availability not only from the standpoint of his record, but also from a purely political standpoint.

"He's a natural," he said. "He gave Indiana the best administration Indiana ever had. He put more legislation on the books of Indiana than any other governor than anybody ever did in the history of the state and he demonstrated his executive ability."

"He's a great campaigner, too. There isn't a better one in the country."

"His views are substantially the views of the New Deal."

Taxi Driver Charges Couple Abducted Him

Milwaukee—A Victor Klem, according to the story he told police, went for a "ride" in his own taxicab last night.

Klem told police a Milwaukee couple asked him to drive them to a roadhouse in Waukesha county. He said when they neared the place the man plotted a revolver at him and ordered him drive on to Waukesha. There, Klem said, the two entered a restaurant with the announced intention of holding it up. Klem found a policeman who arrested the man and woman. The man carried a loaded revolver.

The two were held in Waukesha county jail last night.

TAKES NEW POST

Milwaukee—The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis J. Haas (above), Milwaukee, announced yesterday he would leave here Sept. 1 to become the first dean of a newly created social science department at the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C.

Monsignor Haas made the announcement following investiture ceremonies in which he was clothed with the office of domestic prelate to the pope and given the rank of Right Reverend Monsignor.

He will resign from his position as a member of the state labor relations board, and will relinquish his post of rector of St. Francis seminary.

Mrs. Shaw Takes Stand in Probe Of Mate's Death

Testifies He Had Been in Ill Health for Several Months

Richland Center, Wis.—Mrs. Mildred Shaw testified, at a coroner's inquest into the death of her husband, Orla, today that he had been ailing for several months before he died June 21, two weeks after the body of their niece was found in bed, a bullet wound in her head.

The inquest was called after Madison pathologists and toxicologists reported traces of poison were found in Shaw's system when a post-mortem examination was conducted. The post-mortem was ordered on petition of Carl N. Hill, Madison, attorney for Harold Best, 15, brother of the slain girl, who, authorities claim, confessed he shot his sister.

Mrs. Shaw said her husband had been in poor health for some time and had treated himself for boils. The Best boy previously had said that his uncle had treated himself for boils, using a home remedy that contained poison.

Dr. W. A. Sannes, Soldiers Grove, the family physician, testified he had treated Shaw for internal disorders and prescribed no medicine that contained poison. He said Shaw died of natural causes. Dr. A. E. Dillman, Soldiers Grove, also testified. His testimony was of a technical nature.

District Attorney Sidney A. Hanson, Richland county, said the inquest probably would continue through today and perhaps part of tomorrow.

Escaped Convict Is Arrested at Neenah

Neenah—John Brill, 32, who escaped from Spaulding, a Wisconsin state prison farm in Oneida county on June 23, was caught in Neenah at 11:30 Tuesday night by Charles Livingston, special agent for the Soo Line railway. The escaped convict was returned to the state penitentiary at Waupun this morning after prison officials came to Neenah to get him.

Brill told Neenah police he had been working in wheat fields in North Dakota since he walked away from the prison farm in Oneida county in June. The railway agent picked him up in the Soo line yards near the water tank.

Appleton Armory Sold for $15,000 To National Guard

Sale of Building to Company D Is Announced By Light Infantry

Armory G, a city landmark since it was built by the Appleton Light Infantry association in 1904, has passed from the association's ownership in a $15,000 sale to Company D of the Wisconsin National Guard, it was revealed today by Charles A. Green, chairman of the association's board of directors.

Sale of the building to Company D was handled by the adjutant general's office and Hubert Piette, Leonard Ryan and Orville Munster have been named as a board of trustees to manage the building. Immediate remodeling will take place and the building will be redecorated.

Terms of the sale were $10,000 in cash and a $5,000 mortgage. Company D secured a loan of $12,000 from the state teachers' annuity fund and after making the down payment will use the rest of the money to reconstruct the building. The building was sold because the association could no longer manage it in face of taxation, Green said. A non-profit organization, the Appleton Light Infantry association, was not taxed for the building for many years, but last year it was decided to assess and tax the building to determine whether the building was to be exempt from taxation. State owned or military buildings are not subject to taxes.

In face of a friendly suit to determine whether or not the building should be taxed, the owners decided to sell it. The armory was valued last year at $38,000. John F. Voge is secretary of the 20 members of the Appleton Light Infantry association and Lother B. Graef is treasurer and manager. Members are Hugh E. Venger, Charles A. Green, Lother B. Graef, Frederick W. Hoffman, Maurice Peerenboom, Clarence B. Peterman, Allan E. Ellis, William H. Zuehlke, John F. Voge, Marcus Steinhauer, Harry P. Ballard, George W. Kloeppel, Chris E. Mullen, Louis Lang, William Steenis, William E. Thompson, Paul B. Whydowski, George Hansen, Erwin Grundeman and George Merkel.

Art Felsch, related to Happy Felsch, the former White Sox ball player, will give his slow motion pantomime of big league ball players. He has appeared in many of the major league parks and cities of the United States. Bob and Audrey are an adagio dance team appearing on the program.

Edward Mumm, Jr., will be featured in several violin solos. Violet, the jodeling cowgirl who was a member of Al Jolson's troupe, last winter, has returned from the East and will appear tonight. The balance of the program will be composed of singers and dancers.

The new owners are planning to renovate locker and shower rooms in the building, redecorate the interior and exterior and make general repairs.

Find Pathos and Comedy In Hundreds of Letters Sent to 'Dear Governor'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau — Pathos and comedy, marital problems, the difficulties of mortgage-ridden farmers and small home owners, ambition and despair, eulogies by devoted admirers, and denunciations saturated with bitterness, all are contained in the hundreds of letters which daily pour in on the executive office in the capitol, addressed to "Dear Governor," Philip F. LaFollette.

There are letters by crippled children, families in legal difficulties, cranks, admirers, amateur political scientists, and a great many by plain people who want the governor to help them, to get medical aid, old age pensions, relief, and most of all, a job.

The governor on a typical day receives from 125 to 150 letters from the people, and on special occasions, as during campaigns, or after radio addresses this may jump to 500 or 1000. Many of them jump to his personal attention, others go to his secretaries who do their best to answer the odd questions and to fulfill the unusual requests Wisconsin's citizens make.

All Get Replies Some of the messages bring a smile; others written in pencil on cheap paper, misspelled, ungrammatical, bring a tear. All get personal replies.

A typical mail brought, among many others, this astounding request by a housewife lobbyist for a piece of the governor's necktie and Mrs. LaFollette's dress, which, with similar contributions from other state governors and President and Mrs. Roosevelt, were to make up a patch quilt; an appeal for the governor "to please help out; my son needs an operation very bad; an offer to sell the chief executive a "very rare" book by a citizen who "needs money very bad."

A typical letter to the governor will begin, "My neighbor was telling me that she heard you speaking over the radio about giving pensions to crippled children." Then follows a pathetic narrative of woe by a young girl who "hasn't any place to call home." Relatives, who are now supporting her, "have a hard enough time making a living for themselves." And couldn't the governor arrange to give her a pension? This note brought a cordial response from the executive office, which referred the case to the crippled children's division.

Aged Want Help Then there is an old couple who have "worked very hard all our life and saved, but have a home when we get old." But, they tell the governor, "during the depression we lost our home, and have no chance in life to work or save. Please help us to get a pension bill through."

An old gentleman, whose farm is mortgaged, confides the most intimate details of his life to the governor, and ends with a plea for help. "That the home we have worked for so hard is mine. Dear governor, do your best for the old people of the state and make the last few years happy for me that are left. I place my faith and trust in you."

One rural couple, in dire poverty according to their letter, sent a picture of their little son on horseback, with a request that the governor sell it to a magazine for $50. "We are very poor and on relief, and want to make our own way if we can," they explained. A reply by Miss Mabel Griswold, the governor's private secretary, suggested a market for the photograph.

Asks Ban on Firearms The long, rambling epistles, many of which are written by cranks, others with freak suggestions for the administration of the state government, explain that "the matter will be brought to the attention of the governor."

One man, after half a dozen pages of closely written comments, ended with a demand for a statutory ban on prize fighting. "There is now a law against rooster fighting," he pointed out.

One happy couple wrote an exuberant letter, in verse, notifying the governor that their newly born son had been christened "Philip Delano." "Philip for our governor, Delano for our President, and we hope some day he will be very proud of that name."

Requests for favors, jobs and other aids are innumerable. Perhaps knowing this, one ardent follower of the La Follette Political creed prefaced his letter with the explanation that "there is nothing I seek from you of a special nature or privilege."

The devotion which political leaders inspire in their followers is well illustrated in the fervent passages of this man's letter. "My heart is still full of the love I ever had for you. . . I feel the same way about Roosevelt; it is a love of subjection for wonderful leaders. . . I shall be beside you when the world and everyone in it is against you, if that day should ever come."

Day after day the stream of complaints, criticisms, calls for help, continues as the copious files in the capitol's east wing bulge and overflow. And daily also the governor's staff and Mr. LaFollette himself keep busy replying to the messages from the people.

It is a stream of life, and through it runs conclusive evidence of a change in the attitude of the common people, the fountain spring of democracy, toward the heads of their government, namely that those heads, whom they elected, are their personal friends.

The illustration of this feeling is the letter received by the governor last winter from a party follower in upper Wisconsin. Lacking the money necessary to put up himself and his family in a hotel, he asked Governor LaFollette to let them have rooms in the executive mansion during his inauguration.

said points where Japanese troops have landed this time are too small to serve as bases for a big push. Japan, it also appeared, has repeated the fatal mistake made by the allied forces at Gallipoli in 1915.

Chinese Warned By deploying battleships openly before a landing from the transports was attempted, the Japanese gave the Chinese ample warning.

While scores of Japanese ships moved back and forth before expected landing points, Chinese made full preparations for resistance.

With amazing cunning and speed they placed extensive concealed mines. When Japanese troops landed and reached the danger spots the mines were touched off. Some landing parties were decimated.

The Chinese resistance took the Japanese completely by surprise. Japanese suffered heavy losses attempting to land troops. Shantow, a mile upstream from Woosung fort.

I saw one Japanese destroyer whose decks were littered with dead and wounded. The wounded were being taken to the Japanese hospital ship, Kawase, for return to Japan.

Need Land Mines Seven hundred Japanese reinforcements landed without a shot being fired at Changwehpang. They developed and advanced. When they reached what they apparently thought was the Chinese second line, a series of land mines exploded.

Flames, rocks, earth and scrap iron shot skyward. Scores of the Japanese landing party were killed. The scattering survivors took refuge in Shanghai-Nanking railway shops.

Chinese claimed their artillery fire had sunk two Japanese warships and slaughtered 1,500 troops. The most serious fire, in the Nanking area to the south, threatened to set off the huge munitions-loaded Kiangnan arsenal and destroy the Chinese and French waterworks which supplies 1,000,000 of Shanghai's 3,000,000 people.

The Szechow headquarters of the Chinese army claimed the occupation of Yikung and Paoshan on the Yangtze as well as Lotien and Changhsuepang which lies between Shanghai proper and Woosung.

Teachers' Union Delays Action on CIO Affiliation

Madison — (7)—Conciliatory counsel of old guard members apparently had prevailed today to delay a showdown on proposals that the American Federation of Teachers affiliate with the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Convention officials announced discussions at private sessions yesterday and last night indicated a majority of the 400 delegates favored a national referendum on the question of enlisting in the CIO movement headed by John L. Lewis.

The closed sessions, at which delegates freely expressed divergent opinions, were arranged after it became apparent that hasty action by the convention might break the ranks of an organization that has held an American Federation of Labor charter 21 years.

Our meetings in committee of the whole gave everyone an opportunity to talk without fear of reprisals back home," David H. Pierce, publicity chairman, said. "They also cleared the way for quick action when the problem comes on the floor."

The formal vote on a "compromise" which would authorize the executive council to conduct a referendum will be taken tomorrow.

Try to Keep Firemen From Storage Tank

Oshkosh — (7)—Almost the whole police force was called out this morning while firemen filled a water storage tank supplying an automatic sprinkler system which protects property of the strike-bound Wisconsin Match Corporation plant. Pickets tried to prevent firemen from laying lines but were ordered back by police. The incident passed without disorder.

Sections of the city this afternoon were believed to be adding countless victims. Firemen were making no attempt to halt the sweep of the flames because of the serious water shortage.

In Yangtzepoo, across Soochow creek in the eastern international settlement, the area near the new factory of the Simmons Mattress company was in flames. The Poshing industrial section across the Whangpoo was burning a half mile below the wharves of the Dollar line.

Other blazes were reducing Hongkong's vast industrial area to ashes, and Chapei, which has a normal population of 1,000,000 Chinese, was burning.

Americans Prepare The American authorities tightened control over their section of the international settlement, citizens' emergency committee, working under Consul General Clarence E. Gauss, sped plans for concentration of Americans as the danger becomes more acute.

The United States naval supply ship Gold Star, based at Guam, was scheduled to arrive Aug. 27 for possible emergency use.

British sources reported increasing Japanese naval activity at the mouth of the Yangtze river. The former White Star liner Baltic, which Japan bought as scrap iron, was said to have brought a load of troops after being pressed into transport service because of the acute steamer famine.

The Baltic transported the first units of the American expeditionary force to France in the World war.

Farmers Complain They Can't Find Hired Help

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The problem of the scarcity of farm labor has assumed serious proportions, rural legislators visiting the capitol for conferences with Governor LaFollette reported here this week.

While senators and assemblymen representing farm districts complained that their constituents are unable to get help at a wage rate which is two state departments when interviewed differed on the seriousness of the problem.

According to P. D. Flanner, director of the state department of public welfare, the situation is not

Higher Fees for Settling Estates

Administrators Entitled to More Money Under New Legislation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau — (7)—The 1937 statute increasing the fees of executors and administrators of estates, introduced and passed by the legislature through the efforts of Senator Pierce R. Morrissey, representing Calumet and Winnebago counties, was interpreted by Attorney General Ordland S. Loomis today to mean that the increased fees may be allowed for all estates settled after June 10, the effective date of the act, even though the services were rendered before that date.

The additional fees thus allowed, the attorney general pointed out, will affect the amount of inheritance taxes due on every estate in the process of administration. The opinion was requested by the state tax commission.

The board of control may also change the requirements on amounts of surety bonds required of particular employees when amounts are not fixed by law, the attorney general wrote in another opinion to the board of control.

No useful purpose would be served by paying premiums on a $25,000 bond when a $10,000 surety would be adequate," he wrote.

In Waupaca county, he said, farmers find it next to impossible to get help. Farm hands are asking, and getting $30 a month and board.

Mr. Flanner explained this extraordinary demand in that area by the seasonal potato harvest, and the fact that the county has had a comparatively light relief load throughout.

The fire department was called to W. Washington street about 8:30 this morning to extinguish a blaze that started in a rat kettle being used by the street department in oiling pavement cracks. Chemicals were used to put out the fire.

Japs Would Like to Own Alaska, Moore Tells Rotary Club

Nipponese are Well Acquainted With Territory, Musician Says

"The Japanese are better acquainted with Alaska than we are, and will take it at the first opportunity," E. C. Moore, director of music in Appleton schools, told the Rotary club at its noon meeting yesterday at Hotel Northern.

Mr. Moore described his trip into Alaska and down through British Columbia. He was accompanied on the trip by Robert De Long and Albert Wickesberg, Jr.

The talk was illustrated by a large number of photographic enlargements, picturing the places described by Mr. Moore.

He described the salmon industry of Alaska, stating that in a good summer over 325 million cans were packed, making it the foremost fish-canning center of the world. There is still some piracy in the salmon industry, Mr. Moore said, every year some cargoes being hijacked.

Totem poles were constantly seen, he said. They have no religious significance, but are merely a sort of coat of arms, Moore explained.

The fishing was very good, lake trout being especially abundant in the mountain lakes. Grayling was also prized as a fighting fish, with all fishermen using steel line to make sure of their catch. There is still plenty of hunting with bear, moose, caribou, foxes and wolves running through the country, he stated.

Striking photographs of cloud formations, of which Mr. Moore makes a hobby, were shown.

Report Fewer Cattle In Feed Lots of State

In Wisconsin feed lots there are about 5 per cent fewer cattle on feed now than a year ago and prices of feeder animals are generally much higher, according to R. C. Swanson, county agent. For the corn belt as a whole the decrease in feeding is much larger, being about 29 per cent.

Cattle feeding in the corn belt states is at the lowest level in many years. A year ago feed was scarce and high priced and most meat animals generally were slaughtered. This year feed is more abundant, but the animals are scarce. In addition, corn belt feeders had to wait until after harvest before undertaking feeding operations, due to the small carry-over of feed from last year and the current high prices of the animals. Corn prospects are generally quite good and feed supplies will be more abundant later in the fall with a consequent increase in the number of feeder cattle.

Guffey's Position Called Danger to Minority Groups

'Ruthless Majorities' Must Be Curbed, Lawrence States

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Shall the minority groups in America be protected or should they be overridden roughshod by the arbitrary will of an unchecked majority?

This question, out of which has come bloodshed and civil war in many countries of the world, now has been projected for debate by the Roosevelt administration through its spokesman, senator Guffey of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Roosevelt himself, in his North Carolina speech, made a vague reference to his interest in "majority rule," but it remained for the Pennsylvania senator to outline the conception of power which he and his associates in the New Deal think is vested in "the majority."

Because Mr. Guffey's speech dealt with the activities of three Democratic senators in differing with the administration on the court packing bill, the fact that the same address contained a definition of the way the administration interprets "majority rule" was quite generally overlooked.

Mr. Guffey first quoted from a speech by Chief Justice Hughes, made last June before the American college alumni, in which he said: "The ruthlessness of a temporary majority, if unchecked, will eventually lead to the entire overthrow of democratic institutions."

"Temporary" Majority The Pennsylvania senator professed not to understand what was meant by a "temporary majority" and seemed to think Mr. Hughes was referring to the 1936 majority as "temporary." What Mr. Guffey doesn't know, of course, is that the phrase "temporary majority" has been used for centuries by English-speaking students of democratic institutions and that this phrase is used to draw a distinction between the acts of a legislative body resulting from one or more elections and the fundamental charter of rights contained in a written constitution like ours, which requires two-thirds of both houses of congress and not a simple majority—as well as three-fourths of the states, and again not a simple majority, to change the basic supreme law of the land.

The purpose of the checks and balance inaugurated by the founding fathers was to protect minorities against "ruthless majorities." Otherwise, overnight, a congress composed of a majority of Protestants, for instance, could legislate Catholic schools out of existence. Heretofore, America's best check against the "ruthlessness" of legislative majorities has been a supreme court, which by its decisions, upheld the bill of rights in our federal constitution. When Lord Macaulay said to his American correspondent in 1937: "Your constitution is all sail and no anchor," he had in mind the possible excesses of a ruthless majority who would some day brush aside in a tidal wave of mistaken Zeal the constitution itself. Americans have for generations taken lightly Lord Macaulay's prophecy because they felt the American constitution has had a real anchor—the supreme court.

Guffey's Opinion Today, a United States senator, speaking on behalf of the president of the United States, attacks the integrity of the supreme court and proposes that senators who defended the court be punished at the polls. Indeed, Mr. Guffey does a step further and contends that the right of a majority in congress to be ruthless and ride roughshod over minority rights shall be placed before the "electorate." He says: "Chief Justice Hughes has stated and provided the issue for tomorrow. For one, I accept that issue."

What Mr. Guffey, who has been chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, is saying, in effect, is that the administration, with its enormous power to develop an artificial majority through the political use of public funds nationally, as it did in Pennsylvania, is planning to entrench itself in power and not democracy. The best evidence that can be cited that the Hughes conception of democracy is right and that the Guffey proposal of rule by a "ruthless majority" is un-American is to be found in a speech delivered by Franklin D. Roosevelt over a nation-wide radio hook-up on March 2, 1936, when he was governor of New York:

All Rights Respected

"The whole success of our democracy has been not that it is a democracy wherein the will of a bare majority of the total inhabitants is imposed upon the minority, but because it has been a democracy where, through a division of government into units called states, the rights and interests of the minority have been respected and have always been given a voice in the control of our affairs."

"The moment a numerical superiority by either states or voters in this country proceeds to ignore the needs and desires of the minority, and for their own selfish purposes or advancement, hamper or oppress the minority, or deprive them in any way from equal privileges and equal rights—that moment will mark the failure of our constitutional system."

"For this reason, a proper understanding of the fundamental powers of the states is very necessary and important. There are already, I am sorry to say, danger signals flying. A lack of study and knowledge of the matter of the sovereign power of the people through state government has led us to drift insensibly toward that dangerous disregard of minority needs which marks the beginning of autocracy."

What Mr. Roosevelt states was the true American conception, and it coincides with the view expressed by the famous jurist, Justice Story, who, in his authoritative work, "Commentaries on the Constitution," wrote:

Must Guard Powers "If the will of the people is to govern in the construction of the powers of the constitution and that will is to be gathered at every successive election at the polls, and not from their deliberate judgment and solemn acts in ratifying the constitution, or in amending it, what certainty can there be in those powers?"

"If the constitution is to be expounded, not by its written text, but by the opinions of the rulers for the time being, whose opinions are to prevail, the first, or the last?"

"When, therefore, it is said that the judges ought to be subjected to the will of the people and to conform to their interpretation of the constitution, the practical meaning must be that they should be subjected to the control of the representatives of the people in the executive and legislative departments, and should interpret the constitution as the latter may from time to time deem correct."

"But it is obvious that elections can rarely, if ever, furnish any sufficient proofs, of what is deliberately the will of the people, as to constitutional or legal doctrine. Representatives and rulers must be ordinarily chosen for different purposes, and, in many instances, their opinions upon constitutional questions must be unknown to their constituents."

"The only means known to the constitution by which to ascertain the will of the people upon a constitutional question is in the shape of an affirmative or negative proposition by way of amendment offered for their adoption in the mode prescribed by the constitution."

What, however, has been historic doctrine is now disregarded and in its place comes Guffeyism, which would erase the traditional protection to minorities and enthrone a "ruthless majority."

Trailers Provide New Income Source For Gas Stations

Service Men Begin Offering Parking Space, Camp Facilities

BY CARL W. MASON

New London—A two-birds-with-one-stone solution help for two important problems may be provided by the hydra-headed host of automobile service stations mushrooming everywhere over the country. One will assist in solving the so-called house trailer parking difficulty and the other would mean a new source of revenue to the vast array of filling stations which must largely stretch thinner their average of earnings as their numbers swell like the progeny of the prolific poor family.

Far seeing filling station owners—where their available land permits—are already beginning to accommodate a few house trailers on their premises with parking space and some camp services. Others are preparing to follow suit. It is probable that great numbers of such stations will in the near future take steps to care for a few trailers at least and become regular stopping places for travelers, furnishing in some cases services equal to those of the ordinary tourist camps. Some station owners having adjacent land available will spread out on a considerable scale. Others may be able to accommodate but one or a few outfits at a time. But in either case the result will be added income for the station and a service of great value to the traveler.

The station proprietor can provide electrical service, water, toilets and at least cold showers with very little expense to himself. Toilets and water are already there. And not only will he profit by the camp fees charged but his general business in gasoline, oil, greasing, washing, tires and tire repairs will be stimulated as well as any trade he may carry on in drinks, groceries, milk and other supplies. Existence in any form is a problem for a horde of filling station owners and their numbers are being augmented annually.

Need Sewage Disposal Some sort of sewage disposal means is likely to be the chief problem in equipping a filling station trailer camp. Such camps may generally be small and the sewage disposal problem may be solved by a simple central drain or a few such with, say, short, hose connections from the trailers to them. This method would not be expensive and would meet all the real needs of the situation. Septic tanks, even small inexpensive ones, would suffice where regular sewerage does not exist.

In most small communities and in the country, however, health regulations are at a minimum and, by a proper campaign, the filling station and trailer people may be able to keep them so. Trailering is getting too big and its service too important an industry to be unreasonably restricted. And with suitable accommodations provided outside most trailer travelers would prefer to park away from the larger cities anyway.

Begin Beet Canning At Fuhremann Plant

The canning of beets was started yesterday at the Fuhremann Canning company but it is too early to forecast the condition of the beet crop, an official said. The canning of beets will continue for about two months. Along with beets, tomatoes, lima beans are in need of rain, it was reported, and the green bean crop would have been considerably larger if it had had more rain.

Men are being added to the force, and a full crew will be at work in several days. Production will continue until some time in November.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE AP Science Editor

Boston—(A)—George B. Welch of Northeastern University here says in Nature that the normal human eye can see 940,000 different colors.

To believe that it is necessary to look at a Titchener-Ebbinghaus double pyramid, and those gifted persons who can do so will realize that in sunsets they "ain't seen nothing."

The pyramid is a mathematical method of plotting the total number of colors possible to see. When a scientist gets right down to the facts the eye sees three things in color.

First is brilliance, and there are 660 different degrees of brilliance, Mr. Welch says, which the eye can see. Second is the hue, and there are 156 of those. Third there is saturation, the quality which makes one color stand out more vividly than the other. There are 220 degrees of saturation.

The combination of all these adds to 940,000 colors.

Sludge Will be Sold at Sewage Treatment Plant

Board of Public Works Recommends Purchase of Machinery

Recommending to the council the purchase of $500 worth of pumping and grinding equipment, the board of public works yesterday afternoon paved the way for selling sludge at the sewage treatment plant. About 30 tons of sludge are now on hand and will be sold for $1.50 a 100 pounds after the installation of machinery in October.

Clarence O. Baetz, plant superintendent, said he had received many calls for the sludge which has proven to be valuable as a fertilizer.

A switch panel will be installed at the treatment plant by Art-Killoren Electric company for $210. Five bids ranging from $300 to $1,010 for purchase of the former Zuehlke home at 1225 W. Prospect avenue were opened by the board and referred to the public grounds and building committee for consideration.

Sidewalk Repairs
Assessments for graveling E. Goodall street from Lave street east and installing a sanitary sewer on N. Summit street from Spring street to Summer street were determined. The board traversed the length of College avenue and found 28 sidewalks in need of repair. Property owners will be notified of the necessary repairs.

The board this afternoon was scheduled to confer with the town board of Grand Chute on rates for installation and service of sanitary sewers in Belle Heights, an unincorporated village north of Wisconsin avenue and west of Richmond street. The matter of service to the area has been referred to the water commission.

Police later discovered he had sold a set of machinist's tools here and in checking found they were stolen at Green Bay.

He was turned over to Green Bay police and yesterday pleaded guilty to stealing the tools at the Green Bay Y. M. C. A. His department of justice record shows forgery and immigration law violations and in a statement to Green Bay police McDougall admitted a term in Leavenworth for a liquor law violation.

Workers' School Planned at U. W.

Extension Project Is Called First of Kind in United States

Madison — A permanent extension school for workers—the first of its kind established in the United States—will be added this fall to the educational services of the University of Wisconsin.

A joint committee of university professors and labor leaders announced today that Ernest Schwarzenberger, until recently a member of the Carroll college faculty, has been named director of the school which will do for labor in Wisconsin what the agricultural extension course offers the farmers.

The 1937 legislature voted to set aside part of the general university appropriations to finance its work. No classes will be held in Madison, but teachers will be stationed at Milwaukee and others will make visits to outlying sections of the state.

About seven instructors will be hired at the start, it was indicated, on the basis of their university teaching and labor experience. Their main purpose will be to develop better labor leaders.

The university for many years has conducted institutes for workers during the winter and a special course at the summer session. Professor John R. Commons has been a leader in the projects.

Members of the university committee in charge of the school are Professors Max Otto, chairman of the philosophy department; Selig Perlman of the Economics department; and F. W. Roe of the English department.

The labor committee consists of Henry Ohl, Jr., Milwaukee, president of the state federation of labor; Henry Rutz, Milwaukee, organizer for the Farmer-Labor-Progressive federation; and Joe Friedrich, secretary of the Milwaukee Federated Trades council.

78-Year-Old Grandmother Entertains Hospital Folk With Harmonica Tunes

BY W. X. Derrus
Strains of "Du, Du Liegst Mir Im Herzen," "Nearer My God to Thee," old Bohemian folk numbers and German tunes are echoing through the second floor at St. Elizabeth hospital these days as Mrs. Hagen, Hortonsville 78-year-old patient, lulls other patients with her soft harmonica tunes.

Mrs. Hagen, who learned to play the harmonica along about the '20's, has started to play the instrument again to make time turn back to a panorama of memories of scenes at Hortonsville. She has been a patient at the hospital for the last four months and has spent most of her time cheering other patients with tunes that have endeared her to all persons on the floor.

Modern music is too fast for Mrs. Hagen, who would rather play folk dance tunes and the "Hortonsville March," a tune composed by a 12-piece band that used to play for dances at Hortonsville some 50 years ago. Sacred music also is a part of her repertoire, which has been built up from practice.

Gets Instrument as Gift
The instrument she plays has a special sentiment, for it was given to her by a nephew two years ago. It was then that Mrs. Hagen began to use the harmonica again, after a lapse of 30 years.

"Lauterbach," "Ach du Lieber Augustin," schottische, polkas and marches come from the tiny instrument while the little gray-haired grandmother's eyes grow watery as she recalls her girlhood, when she did the hop waltz, square dances, whirligigs and two steps with bashful swains.

As her music gains volume, patients from other rooms who are able to manipulate a wheelchair or are able to walk, jam into the doorway and listen with attentive ears. There are many requests, but "granny" can't play long, because she's still convalescing from the illness that has kept her confined to a hospital room since last May.

Recalls Incidents
Her face brightens and dims with the rising and falling tempo, but every time she ends a number she wants to play the old "Hortonsville March" again. It, like music can only do, must bring back incidents over in the village that cannot be forgotten though they are many years past.

"It looks funny to be sitting up in bed or in the wheelchair and playing a mouth organ," she says, "but it's the only pastime I've got and it gives me pleasure to do it."

Up in bed or down in the wheelchair, it still keeps the hospital folk wondering how she does it, although all agree that while it helps "granny," it is also a great pleasure to them.

G. O. P. Leaders of Eighth District Oppose Coalition

Map Plans for Observance of Constitution Day Sept. 17

Opposition to the proposed coalition between Republicans and Democrats in the state was expressed at a meeting of county Republican leaders of the Eighth congressional district at Green Bay last night. Orville G. Hegner, Appleton, Eighth congressional district chairman, presided at the meeting.

Speakers at the session attributed the plan to "disgruntled leaders of both parties in the extreme southeastern part of the state."

About 30 county leaders, including a number of county committee chairmen, were present at the meeting and plans for the observance of Constitution Day, Sept. 17, and for future meetings were made.

Constitution Day will be observed with meetings in all the counties of the Eighth district, it was decided at the conference, which was the first of a series to be held monthly until the 1938 congressional campaign. Elmer R. Honkamp, Appleton attorney, will speak at the Constitution Day meeting at the Hotel Nordland in Green Bay Sept. 17, and plans are being made for a meeting in Appleton.

An educational program was formulated and will be carried out by the local organization in each county. A general committee in charge of this program will be named later. A speaker's bureau, to provide programs for future events, was established.

The next meeting of the Eighth district Republican chairmen will be held at Oconto the last week in September.

'Hole-Proof' Purse Sought for Dairy Industry in State

Wisconsin Congressmen Ready to Map Plans in Farm Program

Washington—(AP)—Wisconsin congressmen are priming themselves to see that the dairy industry gets a "hole-proof pocketbook" from the farm program, which congress is expected to enact either in regular or special session.

Representative Gerald Boileau, Wausau, Wis., Progressive, member of the house agriculture committee, says dairy profits in the past have been lost through "holes in the purse" created by trade pacts and lack of an adequate program for the industry.

A determined effort will be made by dairy state representatives, he said, to incorporate in the Jones agriculture bill a close-limit governmental policy for the industry. Boileau said he expects any house agricultural legislation will conform quite closely to the Jones bill.

This measure, introduced at the last session but not acted on, calls for the ever-normal granary, continuance of the soil conservation act, and a voluntary production control program.

Dairying Boileau declares, is ignored by the bill. He and others say it should provide equal safe guards for the milk, butter and cheese producers.

Boileau's Aims
Any legislation seeking to do for dairying what the Jones bill is designed to accomplish for other types of agriculture, Boileau contends, should provide for orderly marketing, financing of accumulated surpluses in flush periods; barriers to prevent speculators from making price raids, and authority for establishment of a corporation to purchase surpluses.

Boileau and other progressives, Representative Merin Hull, Black River Falls; Harry Southoff, Madison; B. J. Gehrmann, Mellen; and George Schneider, Appleton, also take issue with the administration's trade agreements.

All subscribe to a belief that dairying should be protected from imports and should also be free from a "subsidized dairy industry" in other sections of the nation.

They say they see a menace to middle west dairying in provisions of the soil conservation act. They take the stand that other agricultural sections of the country should not be paid money for changing from soil depleting crops to feed for dairy cattle, on the ground it may encourage dairying in other areas to an extent that overproduction would threaten market prices.

Lewis, CIO chief, when he arrived to speak at the U. A. W. convention, probably tomorrow.

The Grand Rapids local, comprising 3,800 furniture workers, was chartered temporarily by the U. A. W., Spencer said.

Sportsmen Must File Reports to Get New Licenses

State Abandons Plan of Requiring Receipts for Game Census

Outagamie county hunters need not file a game census receipt to secure a 1937 license, but, must swear that they have filed a report, according to information received by County Clerk John E. Hanischel from the conservation commission.

The original intention of the commission was to return a receipt to every hunter who filed his report of game killed, which the hunter would have to present to the county clerk in order to secure a license for 1937. However, the postage and clerical work was considered too costly.

If a hunter has not filed a report he must do so before he can secure a license. This is the last year that the conservation department will allow filing after the time provided by the statutes, which is Feb

Loomis Clarifies Law On Sale of Beverages

Madison—(P)—Stockholders in corporations engaged in the manufacture or sale of malt beverages or liquors are exempt from a law forbidding manufacturers and wholesalers of alcoholic beverages from having a financial interest in retail licenses or premises in which their products are sold, Attorney General Orland S. Loomis advised the beverage tax division Tuesday. Loomis said any other interpretation would lead to an impossible administration burden on the department since it would require the examination of stock books of all corporations applying for wholesale permits. He cautioned the department, however, not to disregard a corporate arrangement deliberately devised for the purpose of evading the statutes.

Salaried Man Gets Short End of Income Tax System

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Better late than never, Senator Bone, of Washington, on the last day of congress, introduced a bill to permit income taxpayers to deduct the medical expenses of themselves and the members of their families and to charge off not more than $250 a year for the actual expense of educating each child.

This proposal probably will come of nothing because it deals particularly with a class of citizens of no political unity, the salaried employees, who are deemed to have no rights because they are neither dirt-poor nor filthy-rich. Nevertheless, it does express an unexpected note of sympathy and for his few kind words the senator may expect a star in his crown.

The class of which I write is the tax collector's meat. These people draw salaries which are matters of plain, accessible record and their deductions and exemptions are few and small. They have neither holding companies nor incorporated yachts, they can't make loans to themselves and charge off the amortization because they haven't the money to lend and they have neither seventeenth century barns nor ranches with which to confuse the short and simple record of their earnings and disbursements from year to year.

They are allowed a deduction of $2,500 for mama and papa and a matter of about $1.10 a day for the support of each kid up to the age of 18 at which time the parents are expected to kick them out to become little bums if they must, while the big heart of the government unfolds the children of the great, non-taxable, ill-kept third and tries to gentle them through the difficult twilight between youth and maturity.

Chief Clerk's Son Must Get Out, Root

I can't figure out why the son of a suburban salesman or chief clerk is supposed to be ready to get out and root, hog, or die at the age of 18, while the son of an underprivileged character over beyond the tracks is deemed to be a tender shoot and the object of the nation's solicitude and special care at the same birthday and for some time after.

The internal revenue people will admit that the farmer, for all his squawking, is one of our most reluctant taxpayers and that medical men and small merchants are almost equally difficult. The farmer extends his acres or his buildings or adds to his stock and calls it an outrage when the man with the brief case sharpens up his pencils and tries to show him where he owes the U. S. A. $348.36, with accrued interest, on a profit that he picked up, but forgot to declare, two years ago.

The doc takes in an indefinite sum of twos, fives and tens and, anyway, unless he is a society doctor with a toby number in a nurse's suit, to look up his patients' credit rating to see how sick they are, he isn't much of a hand to keep records. Just about the time he settles down on an evening to enter up 50 cents from the guy who dropped a crate on his toe, the phone rings and off he goes to deliver a bundle from heaven at the home of some prolific town character who will promise to pay him $5 as soon as he sobers up.

Small merchants also have a tendency to keep books on the back of a paper bag, but the man who gets a certain amount every week and has no problems of buying and selling, spoiled stock, depreciation, bad debts and interest with which to play parlor tricks on the agents is the one who has no alternative but to toss his money over the transom and walk on by.

His Health Is Item Of Heavy Expense

Yet his health and the health of his family are items of very heavy expense, particularly if he is in good pay as he usually is, being subject to garnishee.

As Senator Bone pointed out, the honest hayshaker may deduct from his taxable income the money paid a veterinary to attend his cow in her most solemn hour and further deduct the price, on the hoof, if she vanishes into the shadow.

But the subject of our little essay may not subtract the cost of contributing another little American to the land he loves nor the price of the funeral in case of disaster. His own health is absolutely necessary in his circumstances, for without it he loses his earning power and his family goes on the town for quarters, heat and rations at a dead loss to the government. But he isn't allowed to deduct as operating expense the cost of keeping himself in shape to scuffle for the pay check without which he could pay no tax at all.

The education of his kids is supposed to be the business of the community to which he pays school taxes, but what with graft, neglect, bad planning and all he will take it on himself to give them a few little extra licks in a pay school if he can possibly manage. He gets no allowance for their education at any time, however, unless some genius in the treasury has figured out a way to educate, house, feed, clothe and doctor a kid and buy him an occasional ball-bat or pair of skates on a fraction of a cent over $109 a day.

Our subject is the Patsy of the whole income tax system.

Milk Production Gains in August

State Reports 3 Per Cent Increase Over Corresponding Month in 1936

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison — Milk production on Wisconsin dairy farms held up well during the dry month of August, about 3 per cent better than last year, the state and federal crop reporting service announced here yesterday.

Milk production per cow milked is now 6 per cent above a year ago and the production per cow in herds is also higher. Crop correspondents reported the production of 20.19 pounds per cow milked compared with 24.99 a month ago, 19.03 pounds a year ago, and the 10 year average of 20.69 pounds.

Dairy correspondents also report a larger percentage of cows in herd freshening in July than is on record for the month since 1930 at least. The percentage of calves born during July being raised is less than for any July since 1934, the service reported.

In the United States this month, milk production per cow averaged higher than it has for any August in eight years, the service announced.

The August crop report showed a high level of egg production, a larger lamb crop in the state, a 3 per cent increase in wool, a substantial decrease in the number of cattle in feet lots in all the corn belt states and an increase in the average price of all farm products in Wisconsin for the first time since January.

Tax Commission Needn't Pay Warrant Filing Fee

Madison—(P)—Attorney General Orland S. Loomis advised District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes Tuesday that the clerk of the Milwaukee county circuit court is not authorized to charge the Wisconsin Tax commission a $2 fee for each income tax warrant filed in his office against delinquent taxpayers. The filing of such warrants, Loomis ruled, does not come within the meaning of a statute on fee collections.

Farmers Too Busy To Keep All Ragweed Cut, Swanson Says

If Outagamie county farmers were required to keep ragweed from blooming they would be kept busy at that activity alone every year from the middle of July until the first week in September, R. C. Swanson, county agent, said in answer to published articles concerning hay fever and the destruction of ragweed.

"During the July to September period farmers must do their haying, cultivate corn, harvest grain and fill silos," he pointed out. "To ask them to keep ragweeds from blooming would be an impossibility."

While the pollen count may be somewhat reduced by cutting all ragweed within city limits, the pollen from farm fields is carried in the air for 50 miles or more so destroying ragweeds within city

Sales of Baby Bonds Reach New Peak Here

The sale of baby bonds reached a new peak in the last two weeks, Postmaster Stephen D. Balliet said yesterday. During the week of August 8 about $8,000 were sold, and during the week of August 15 about $6,000.

The bonds are purchased almost entirely as a means of saving, said Mr. Balliet, adding that some persons regularly invest part of their salaries in the bonds.

boundaries will not prevent hay fever.

Swanson suggested that educational campaigns to persuade farmers to destroy ragweeds would prove far more effective than compulsory laws. Ragweed is an annual which can be cut in time to prevent seeding and could be eliminated eventually if an educational campaign were conducted towards that end.

DAUGHERTY OVER THE WHITE HOUSE

Harding's Harry Daugherty hated Senator Wheeler as only a suave shifter detests the man who can neither be bought nor wheedled.

Roosevelt's Daugherty, Guffey by name, has precisely the same antipathy toward the incorruptible Montanian.

The comparison of Guffey and Daugherty is an apt one. In fact they were friends. Such men are bound to drift together. So friendly did they become that Daugherty, while Attorney General, advocated the dismissal of indictments against Guffey for the misappropriation and personal use of extensive funds and properties entrusted to his hands by the national government.

The hostility between Guffey and Wheeler is just as natural as the affection existing between Guffey and Daugherty is unavoidable. Guffey is a man after Daugherty's heart. He appeared to have no compunction about turning his position as Alien Property Custodian into money or using vast governmental funds for personal purposes.

In fact, when you view Guffey's admitted conduct, the career of Len Small of Illinois, who put in his own pocket about a million dollars of the interest on public funds, is bound to come to mind. And no one could cry like Small at mention of the "common people."

Guffey became custodian of about $55,000,000 of alien funds during the war. He deposited this money in some thirty separate banks. The use of money was very valuable in those days, call money running as high as 12%.

After depositing this money Guffey himself borrowed over $2,000,000 from the banks and when it came time to turn over the funds to a successor was $400,000 short. Moreover, he borrowed $275,000 from one bank, putting up over $300,000 in government bonds as security that did not belong to him, but belonged to aliens.

In the statement he made at the time Guffey said these bonds were put up by mistake, although he did not own similar bonds. Harry Daugherty, Albert Fall and Company, were given to making similar mistakes. To mistake is human, and to forgive divine. So Guffey made quite a few mistakes, taking interest money belonging to the government, putting up bonds belonging to aliens, getting all tangled up, but always making a lot of money out of it. Making money was no mistake.

Yes, Wheeler is a pretty bad man. If you have any doubt about it, ask Guffey and Daugherty and Fall, and any other shady dodger who has tried to raid the treasury.

THE FUNERAL MARCH CONTINUES

It is doubtful whether the clanking torture chambers of the medieval ages produced a more cruel or dreadful rhythm of sustained death and destruction as the endless Soviet purges.

Only a short time ago, the now friendless Stalin, — because he has shot all his friends, — blessed the Russian people, who otherwise had nothing to say about it, by the gift of a constitution declared by him to make them "the freest people on the earth."

In the attendant celebration Russian orators could not refrain from comparing their liberties with ours, and much to our disadvantage.

But there is a thing known as theory. And there is another thing known as practice. And sometimes they never meet.

Telling the Russian, for instance, that he is the owner of the priceless jewel called Free Speech is like unto declaring to the galley slave chained to his seat and with the lash cutting his back, that he is a freeman.

There is quite a jest about free speech at Moscow. The Russian may exercise it all right, but at the cost of his life. The cold charge of "spy" or the whispered murmur of Trotsky's name are a death warrant to the men who dare to criticize.

The Russian finds that the constitution is not bullet-proof. Today, no doubt, he thinks that constitution the cleverest piece of bait ever put on hooks. Perhaps the story of its coming started men to talking and words were far from favorable to the reigning regime.

There are constitutions that make men free and there are constitutions that enslave them.

Meanwhile the muffled shots mournfully record man's continued cruelty to other men who only crave, perhaps, the free right to walk erect.

Only savagery exists where promises of sweetness and brotherhood were greatest, which is running true to the past because promises made to seduce men into even temporarily surrendering their liberty are invariably false.

STOPPING JAPAN

A subscriber writes:

"Will you please tell us through the columns of your paper what you think of sending 1200 marines to China to protect American lives there, a mere handful of men to be killed by the Japs. Could not the combine powers of Great Britain, France, Italy, Russia, Germany and the United States put an end to the Japanese invasion of China? The Chinese have suffered long, too long for their own good."

The marines were not sent by the President with the expectation that they would engage any part of the Japanese army, although, if need be, that they will do in order to carry out their mission.

The principal purpose of the marines will be to protect Americans from bandits and the pillaging scum that infests every great city and delights in instituting forays when order has been abolished at the command of Mars.

Japan wants no war with America. It wants no war with anyone. But it will accept war unless it receives more Chinese soil. Of course the powers named in the inquiry could save China. They could have saved Ethiopia too. They might have saved Manchuria.

The fact that nations will not move upon a course of principle but only as their own interests seem to be affected destroyed the League of Nations.

Japan will take every one of her soldiers off the Asiatic mainland if the powers mentioned even made a menacing move. The Japs attacked at this time probably because they felt sure there could be no unanimity of action against them by the great powers of the earth.

It may be remembered that when Japan tore the Kellogg-Briand treaty to pieces six years ago and moved to take over Manchuria, several times the size of Wisconsin, the then American Secretary of State, Mr. Stimson, made a decisively sharp protest holding this piracy and perfidy up to the attention of the world. Americans were chagrined when no one supported Washington. The other powers may have been listening to a band concert. Britain was busy down in India. And France is always busy along the Rhine. Several years later Britain spoke sadly of its error but tears and excuses have little value against rifles.

Nations that have not sufficient territory to suit their demands or ambitions have never been held long to a satisfactory program of peace. Nations that have enough do not protect those attacked unless they feel their own interests or territory imperiled.

SEX AND NEWS

Another sex pervert arrested in New York for murder of a child is said by police to have confessed his crime and to have declared that he was moved to the atrocity by reading of a similar recent crime for which a man is now awaiting execution.

The fact is that this man has a long history of sex perversion. He was arrested for a similar crime, without the murder ending, a score of years ago. His long sentence was commuted, and eventually he was paroled, long before the term decided by the judge who sent him away. He was arrested again, on another sex charge, jailed for a brief period for parole violation, and then turned loose on the community, without the slightest precaution against recurrence of his insanity.

Probably the latest crime was inevitable under the procedure. Possibly also it was abetted by the stimulation of abnormal instincts through news reports of other sex murders. The latter, we doubt, no matter what the psychiatric experts hold, we have had sex perversion for a good many centuries before society achieved news communication. We will always have a certain number of human beings in every million who will seek to slake their lust by assault and murder, no matter what newspapers print or do not print. These afflicted people may be moved to violence today by a news article, tomorrow a piece of pink ribbon or a trim anklet, or a bathing beauty advertisement may have the same effect.

The pluses far outweigh the minuses on whether such news ought to be printed. It must be printed, if public opinion is to be aroused to deal with this social menace. Cures can probably be effected in many cases; in others segregation supplies a procedure safer for society than the present scheme of arrest, conviction, and release without restraint. If printing the news means fanning the fire in some cases, it also furnishes the only method by which the fires can be controlled and restrained. Newspapers which carry out their duty don't merit the condemnation of a society which fails in a larger sphere.—Editor & Publisher.

THEY CALLED YOU

Now that it seems to have been established that Tommy Corcoran had much to do with the speech, given by Senator Joe Guffey recently, in which it was indicated that several of the better known and highly respected Democratic senators are a bunch of bums and will be given the bum's rush; and now that it has been established that Tommy Corcoran had much to do with Prexy Roosevelt's last speech, not to mention some other of the president's addresses that have been given in ill-humor, it seems only fair that we hear Tommy Corcoran himself give a speech.

The trick is, though: who will write the speech for Tommy?

While there has been considerable argument concerning the matter of a Fusion party in Wisconsin to beat the LaFollette, your correspondent can see no particular objections to it.

Mr. Lueck got very little more assistance last fall from the Democrats in Washington than did Mr. Wiley, the Republican. He ran third on the state ticket. Mr. Lueck was a Democrat but not a Roosevelt-favored Democrat.

Maybe that was because Mr. Wiley and Mr. Lueck have a great deal in common. Both are lawyers, both have been successful, both are highly respected in their communities. I suspect that they both think alike on a lot of matters. I suspect that either would have made a good governor.

I do not have to suspect that more people wanted them than wanted Mr. LaFollette, because more people voted for them than voted for Mr. LaFollette who actually represents the minority party.

IF THERE is to be a heavyweight championship fight this week, you'd hardly know it from all reports, the dusky boy who holds the championship has been getting more exercise from his sparring partners than he is likely to get from Tommy Farr. When Herr Schmeling's turn comes around again, I may be able to show more interest.

MY DOG AND I

My dog and I are growing old together. My dog is getting gray, and so am I. He does not pull so fiercely at the tether As once he did, but lets the world go by.

My dog is calm; sometimes he dreads the thunder. And comes to me as if I knew a spell To still the storm. . . . But I can only wonder That he can bear the fearful noise so well.

My dog is philosophic; he is nearing The end of the long road that we have trod. He looks to me for safety, never fearing, And I, in turn, look up, with faith in God. (Copyright, 1937)

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

OUT GOES GOUT

Some old timers wonder why I strive to disabuse the popular mind of such wrong notions as "common cold," "acute indigestion," "nervous breakdown," "nervous exhaustion," "acidosis," "auto-intoxication" and "rheumatism." Indeed, I believe the more you fool with such meaningless terms the better it will be for my business as a health commentator and in the long run for the business of all real doctors in practice. "Nervous breakdown," for example, is conventional enough and withal convenient to explain the potential scandal to nosy neighbors or the public of a prominent movie or opera star. It may be all right to fling the patient with it, if you are sure the patient doesn't know any better. But it is a foolhardy thing to ascribe your own shortcomings, weakness, or ailments to nervousness, "weak nerves" or "nervous exhaustion"—unless you elect a parasitic existence as a Class B neurotic.

Gout, like rabies in man, is familiar enough in legend and folklore but extraordinarily rare in actual practice and getting rarer as our diagnostic precision and skill improve.

A formal report of a case of alleged gout appeared in the bulletin of an eastern county medical society three or four years ago. The doctor reporting the case just "pronounced" it gout. From all the scientific evidence adduced to sustain the diagnosis I think it might as well have been called a case of endemic hokum.

According to the great doctors of the last century gout was caused by accumulation in the blood or deposit in the tissues of uric acid or salts of uric acid. Especially deposits of mono-sodium-urate in the tissues about joints, particularly the great toe joint. This theory, however, was conceived in the days before chemistry in medicine. Today we know that the blood of a healthy person contains a certain amount of uric acid; and that the amount of uric acid in the blood is increased somewhat in numerous diseases in which the metabolism rate or oxidation rate is lowered. Uric acid deposits (of mono-sodium-urate) are commonly found in the tissues of persons who have never had an ailment that can possibly purport to be gout. No one today seriously maintains that excess of uric acid or any of its salts accounts for any particular malady, except a few, nice old-fashioned doctors who hold their nice old-fashioned clientele despite all newer knowledge and progress.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

One Vote for Dr. Webster

As the mother of three husky acrobats and trainer of many more I protest against your insistence that Webster's dictionary is wrong about somersaults. You look silly trying to correct Webster's somersaults into "air springs." What you call somersaults are properly called "roll-overs." (H. C. F.)

Answer—Thank you. If you can persuade Webster to adopt the term "roll-over" it will be satisfactory to me. At present Webster recognizes only rotation of the body in the lateral plane as a roll, and that will not do. In the somersault I recommend you just curl up and roll like a wheel.

Pellagra

Will say I am one of the few cases of pellagra in this area. Any suggestions you might give will be greatly appreciated. (Mrs. M. P. A.)

Answer—Unquestionably there are thousands of mild cases everywhere, and most of them dabble with various remedies of their own choosing without benefit of medical advice. Diet must provide plenty of vitamin G. Booklet "Vitality and Vite" gives specific suggestions—send ten cents coin and regular size stamped envelope bearing your address. Optimal ration of irradiated yeast to supplement diet is perhaps the best remedy. Or plain yeast in any form is good. In southern regions where pellagra prevails a dry yeast powder is sold by the pound at moderate cost. (Copyright, 1937)

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, 265 El Camino, South, Beverly Hills, Calif.

SKY CHAMPION IS FLIER

Baden, Germany—(G)—Christel Cranz, world ski champion and German heroine of the last Winter Olympics, has passed her B-test as a glider-flier. The customary greeting of a great deal of noise produced on tin canisters, gasoline cans and oil drums, with a liberal addition of lusty voices was accorded to Christel. In addition she had a "victory flag" of gunny sack, a bunch of hastily picked field flowers and a "B", artistically constructed of evergreen.

The Scots Guards, once a famous regiment in the British army, were abolished in 1830.

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If August 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m., from 1:45 to 3:45 p. m., and from 8:45 to 10:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45 a. m., from 6:45 to 8:45 p. m., and from 10:45 p. m. until midnight.

It will be a mistake to make suggestions, involving the expenditure of money, to anyone unless you are financially able to act upon your recommendations. This is a poor day to trust entirely to your memory any number of important details or figures. It will be good judgment to make memorandums and consult them throughout the day. It might be advisable to be willing to compromise in matters that involve some kind of an adjustment. A disposition to give-and-take is likely to prove more helpful than a tenacious, overly fixed resolve to have your own way. Do not disregard any intuition you might have, providing it is not inspired by some pet superstition. Self-complicity will be responsible for many an error of judgment this day. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are in love, might be wise not to insist too strongly on an answer when a reluctance to give one is apparent.

If a woman and August 26 is your birthday, you may have a remarkably good mind for figures or dates. Books, music, art and the stage ought to have an unusually strong appeal to you. By having too much confidence in your friends you may discuss too freely your personal affairs. Remember that frequently what people do not know prevents them from trying to direct your private business, according to their ideas. You may be very fond of home life, and rather reluctant to participate much in social activities. Among the activities in which you might do exceptionally well are: teaching, painting, writing, acting, selling or work of a managerial nature. Married life ought to have a great deal to offer you in both happiness and financial independence.

The child born on August 26, may seem unduly inquisitive during its adolescence, but through its desire for information it is likely to ac-

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Nobody could accuse President Roosevelt of buying a pig-in-a-poke when he named Hugo L. Black to the Supreme Court.

Black's opinion as a senator have been recorded on miles of white paper. And they've all been on the Rooseveltian side.

His maiden speech in the senate was a battle for Muscle Shoals. He wanted cheaper nitrate rates for farmers. That was in the Republican era when a young Democrat from Alabama was nothing but a voice crying in the wilderness. But Black stayed to see TVA become a fact in 1933.

His last battle in the senate was his own bill which he says would put a bottom on American living standards; the wages and hours bill.

What to Expect

So what can be expected of him in the oak-lined room where the nine justices finally sit down to iron out a decision?

First it's expected that Black will go right to work. He'll face that little court mousy that says a polite justice should eliminate himself when a controversy comes up in which he is personally interested.

But Black's been a senator ten years. He's had his finger in hundreds of laws. If he were to become dainty about the laws he should or should not pass upon he would truly become the phantom justice, appearing on the bench only now and then.

Besides he's roasted lip-service artists dozens of times. Half his pleas for the wages and hours bill have been pleas to act, and act now.

As judge, he'll have several New Deal laws on which to act.

The holding company bill is on the way up through the lower courts. And when that bill was dying of anemia in congress Black was the hypodermic that shoved it through to enactment. Just as the fight over the act was on Black opened his lobby investigation. In a handful of days he had proved that hundreds of telegrams flooding congress, opposing the bill, had been paid for by the power companies. In a fever of self-righteousness congress passed the bill.

Sense of Humor

Through dozens of senate sessions Black has beat the drum for the rights of people as against the rights of property. He's bristled with figures of people working long hours while others were out of work. He's inveighed against fortunes built from shoe-strings when he was investigating the ocean and air-mail contracts. He has insisted that big business has jumped state lines, and must be controlled by national laws.

He'll probably be sitting on the bench when the Securities and Exchange commission comes up for review. He'll be there when the right of PVA to lend money to cities for power plants comes up. He'll be there when his old pet, TVA, arrives in the court again.

He's a lent that such measures a helping hand for ten years in the senate, and it's an extremely safe bet he'll go lending the same helping hand.

And fortunately for a generation of student lawyers still in their cradles, who will grow up to study Supreme Court decisions, the new Associate Justice Black has a delicately cut sense of humor.

Kaukauna — About 150 people will gather at 6:30 tonight to give honor to the state champion Kaukauna Sons of the American Legion Drum and Bugle corps at a celebration to be held for the corps members in the Knights of Columbus club rooms, W. Wisconsin avenue.

Honored at the banquet will be 38 members of the state champions corps and their drill master Harry Treptow, Sr. The boys won the championship two weeks ago at the state legion convention at Milwaukee. This is their third state championship. They won third place, however a year ago.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Potato Growers Not United In Favor of Eliminating Culls, State Hearing Shows

Waupaca — Interest in the state wide potato hearing Tuesday at the courthouse continued throughout the day, the session closing at 5 o'clock. Farmers from all parts of the state were present to discuss the proposed potato marketing agreement and order as presented by representatives from the United States Department of Agriculture. The estimated potato production in 1937 has been exceeded only four times in previous years, and with the trend of prices downward farmers were generally of the opinion that any legislation that will produce a good price for potatoes should be supported 100 per cent.

The proposed plan calls for eliminating cull potatoes from out-of-state shipments, and for federal-state inspections of all shipments from the areas covered by the marketing agreement and order. The majority of potato growers were of the opinion that not only must the culls be eliminated but that only No. 1's be used for marketing.

Jardine's View
An exception to this view was presented by J. F. Jardine, representative grower and shipper of his own produce from Waupaca, who said that "frankly—it's not workable and I regret it, for something ought to be done for the potato growers." Mr. Jardine said that "the Warner bill attempted to give the farmer a hard time. It was a good bill and would have worked if given a chance. This too is an attempt to control a certain crop after it has been produced. Whether in-state or interstate, the potato will eventually find a buyer by the law of supply and demand, and it is much cheaper to leave it in supply than to let it defeat its purpose."

Mr. Jardine, who is a director and president of the National Potato association, told the audience that conditions in Wisconsin vary. While potatoes around Antigo this year are fine, he said, in Waupaca they are of inferior quality. To take away a farmer's rights by enactment of legislation, is bound to be trouble, he maintained. A farmer works hard today to raise 50 bushels then he did a few years ago to raise 200. To be effective, No. 2's also should be eliminated, but he approved of their sale if only for starch, alcohol, fertilizer or stock food.

Against Proposal
A wire received from James Swan, Delevan, Wis., was read by J. G. Milward of the college of agriculture, Madison, "opposing adoption of the proposed marketing agreement." Mr. Swan, member of the National Potato association, who has 400 acres of potatoes on peat soil, declared the program would work a hardship on the grower.

H. A. Warner, Racine, a grower and seller of his own produce, said there were several things to consider—most important was the quality of the potato in order to meet competition from Idaho and Washington. His suggestion was to leave all culls in the field to maintain a "recap" business. He said he dislikes going into a restaurant and being served Idaho potatoes, especially when informed upon inquiry that Wisconsin potatoes were not good enough.

According to Mr. Warner, "the sooner we learn to do things right, the sooner we can help ourselves. . . . Grade them so the farmer can be depended upon—keep Idaho and Washington off the market then we won't need inspectors running around checking after us. Quality must be the first concern and anything the federal government has to offer to improve conditions should be welcome."

Dave Slinger, Cambria, Columbia county, a grower and shipper of his own produce, asked "why hurt Stevens Point and Waupaca growers who have poor potatoes this year?" His suggestion was to tax every potato grower in order to buy up the surplus another year. "We've Sold Too Much"

Frank Trickey, Oasis, Waushara county, said, "If the government report is true we'll have cheap potatoes. Keeping culls at home will do no good. It's just as bad to take off a bushel of No. 1's as culls; we've sold too much."

Henry L. Woodward, Plainfield, Waushara county, a grower and shipper, said he would not be affected by the proposal in any way, as he "buys no culls and sells none of his own—up to 15 screen it's O. K. . . . the agreement is not strong enough; as it is it can do no harm . . . believe that all but No. 1's should be off the market."

L. H. Perkins, Rosholt, is not only a grower but a handler and objected to compulsory inspection. He said "when 95 per cent (growers) do as they please, I do not believe in holding down the other 5 per cent (handlers) . . . The law may be fair, but it is unfair to dealers."

Almo G. Larson, Sheridan, a grower and shipper indirectly through a cooperative concern, declared if "only No. 1's are put on the market it will create a hardship. Eliminating No. 3's will not help Wisconsin at all unless they are off the market entirely. . . . Some form of legislation is necessary and if this went far enough it would help. . . . No. 3 must go off at once and No. 2's at second time and kept away from the consuming public." He agreed, however, that the agreement would not be injurious to growers or handlers.

Plan Referendum
The Soil Conservation association will conduct a referendum sometime about the middle of September, the date to be set later. A two-thirds majority vote will be necessary to carry out the proposed plan. Five days are allowed at the close of this session to send any briefs or further statements to the hearing clerk, agricultural adjustment administration, Washington.

The next hearing is to be held Aug. 26, at Princeton, and will begin at 9:30.

Growers and handlers from Marinette, Racine, Columbia, Waushara, Langlade, Marathon and Oneida counties were present at the hearing at Waupaca which was conducted by representatives from the United States Department of Agriculture, D. R. Heggy, Lawrence Myers, and A. L. Mercker.

Taylor Mystery Again in Court

Brought Up in Fight Between Mother, Sister Of Former Star

Los Angeles —(AP)—Hollywood's No. 1 murder mystery, the William Desmond Taylor case, held the spotlight again Tuesday in a court fight over money between the mother and sister of Mary Miles Minter, the film director's fiancée when he was slain 15 years ago.

Mrs. Margaret Fillmore, Miss Minter's sister, is suing her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, to recover $48,750, but attorneys have persistently brought the Taylor murder to the testimony.

Mrs. Fillmore testified Miss Minter came to her home "in a very hysterical manner" the night Taylor was shot.

"She picked up a book and began reading about the South sea islands. The book seemed to amuse her but I picked it up later and found it dry and uninteresting," the actress sister continued.

"Mrs. Shelby was not at home that day."

The following morning, Taylor's Negro house servant found the lifeless body of his employer.

Mrs. Fillmore, during her testimony, cited an incident in which a former film executive openly accused her mother of having killed Taylor.

When Clyde Murphy, Mrs. Shelby's attorney, asked Mrs. Fillmore if she had "reason to believe your mother killed Taylor?"—"and did you have incriminating evidence which you suppressed?"—the witness replied in the negative.

Bad Luck No Stranger To Any Bridge Player

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Apparently bad luck, besides being no respecter of persons, doesn't care in which hemisphere he operates. Here is a sad tale all the way from Australia:

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Playing rubber bridge the other day, the following hand was dealt. First I will show you only my own and partner's cards:

♠ 8 7 5 3
♥ 9 6 4 2
♦ A 3
♣ K 10

SOUTH
♠ A K 6 4
♥ A Q 3
♦ Q 2
♣ A Q J 3

"With the opponents remaining discretely silent, my partner and I bid as follows:

SOUTH
1 spade
4 clubs
4 hearts
5 diamonds
6 spades

3 spades
4 diamonds
4 spades
5 spades

"When my four club asking bid elicited that North had first round diamond control and second round club control, besides excellent spade support as evidenced by his jump raise, a small slam, of course, became an odds-on chance. Despite partner's negative response to my four heart asking bid, I thought that there might be a play for a grand slam if he held the king of diamonds in addition to the ace. Hence, my five diamond asking bid. The denial to this held my next bid down to a small slam.

"Did I say I was thinking of a grand slam? Well, just have a look at the two hands above before glancing at the full deal which I show below. How many tricks would you expect to make on a club opening from West? Observe that we had first round control of every suit and plenty of second and third round control. I'll relieve your suspense. I made precisely eight tricks. This was the entire deal:

♥ 9 6 4 2
♦ A 3
♣ K 10

WEST
♠ J 10
♥ None
♦ 10 8 6 4
♣ 9 8 7 6 5 4 2

EAST
♠ 9 2
♥ J 10 8 7 5
♦ K J 9 7 5
♣ None

"East ruffed the club lead and returned a heart. I suppose I should have finessed rather than having abandoned all chance for success, but to keep the loss down I decided to play the ace. West strangled this with a trump and I then had to lose not only another club ruff but the king of hearts and a second heart ruff.

"Looking at the hand afterward, I discovered (very sadly) that a grand slam can be made on any other lead or even at no trump. On let us say, a diamond lead dummy's ace wins and the club suit is run off, dummy discarding two hearts. Four rounds of spades, ending in dummy, would leave the following position: Dummy would have left one spade, two hearts, and a low diamond. East would have left only the K-J-10 of hearts and the king of diamonds. Declarer's holding would be the A-Q-2 of hearts and the queen of diamonds. West's cards would not matter. The lead of dummy's last spade would now force East to unguard one of the red suits and declarer would make the rest of the tricks on a heart finesse. "Do you think that our bidding and the fact that we ended in spades instead of no trump are open to criticism?"

"Yours very truly,
"C. E. Auckland, Australia."

No, it seems to me that the final contract was a logical one and that only the demon of hard luck prevented its fulfillment.

TODAY'S QUESTION.
Question: What is the correct opening bid on this hand:
♠ A K Q 10 6 ♥ A Q 10 8 6 2 ♦ 3 ♣ 4 2 7

Answer: One heart.
TOMORROW'S HAND
NORTH
♠ J 10 9 5
♥ 10 8 8 7 2
♦ K 8 5 3
♣ None

WEST
♠ 8 3
♥ K J 6 5 4
♦ A J 10 4
♣ K 8

EAST
♠ A 2
♥ A Q 2
♦ 7
♣ A J 10 9 5 3 2

SOUTH
♠ A K Q 7 6
♥ None
♦ Q 9 7 6
♣ Q 7 6 4

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

Patri Names Three Books That Everyone Should Read

BY ANGELO PATRI
A little girl writes to say that she is going to ask me a hard, hard question. Suppose I were told I could have just three books, and no more, no more forever and ever, which three books would I choose to keep with me?

That isn't hard for me at all. You see I have lived with those three books now for a good many years and they never have failed to give me comfort, enjoyment and education. They are the Bible, Shakespeare, and the Dictionary.

I have many more books, many, many more. They come in a stream one very much like the other. Now and then one sends a flash of light across a dark place, touches a bit of beauty with a brighter hue, accents an old truth and sets it more truly to my ear. But the three old books are my dependence. When the others have nothing to say to me, as happens sometimes, these always have.

I am perfectly willing, very happy indeed, to share these three with the children. They ought to be within reach of every child who can read. I'd like them all to know the Twenty-third Psalm, the story of Creation and the Book of Proverbs. Job will come to their attention some day, and so will many another grand character that waits in its pages.

Shakespeare reviews life in terms of beauty, humor and tragedy. He is the master story-teller, poet and dramatist. In him are all the beauties of literature, of human character as expressed in literature. He will not date, he will never grow stale. Always he will be a well of delight. By all means Shakespeare! The Dictionary is priceless. There, neatly set in type are the footprints of man's march to the fulfillment of his destiny. Every word there has a meaning rooted in experience. Scholars have gathered them through the years, written them down, with their history and their uses. There are tears here, and laughter, and struggle and victory, despair and ecstasy. History speaks in every syllable, and yet the modern child of this minute can turn to its pages, pick out the one word he most needs for his expression and use it as easily as though it had been coined this morning.

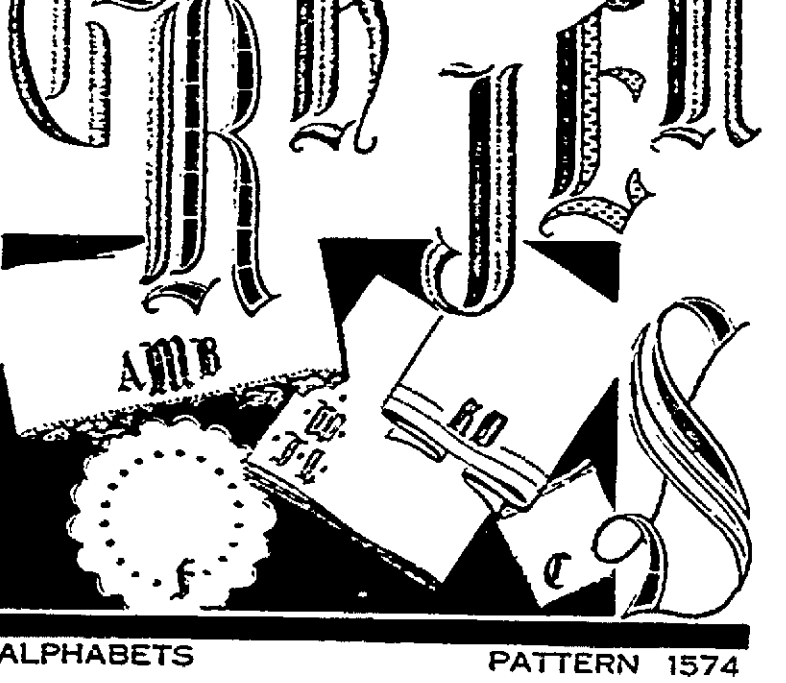

These are my chosen three. There are some others I would like to have as well, but these are essential. I would like to have "Moby Dick" along, and "The Moonstone," and "Pride and Prejudice" and "David Copperfield" and my dog-eared copy of Dante. The list gets

Getting Rid Of Dandruff Not Difficult

BY ELSIE PIERCE
THAT very familiar shrug of the shoulder and quick admission of "yes, I've a bad case of dandruff" remains one of life's little puzzles to me. Why women who are otherwise quite meticulous about their appearance, who spend hours and dollars getting a wave in their hair, who think nothing of going through the discomforts of sitting under hot air dryers, who watch the magazines and newspapers for the hints and forecasts of fashion's changing whims—why they are so complacent about "just a case of dandruff" seems too inconsistent for my poor powers.

True, dandruff is something that most people have, at some time or other. True, it is no disgrace—not the having, but the keeping is not in keeping with good grooming.

White on Black
Remember, too, that the very fashionable look this fall will suffer sadly if it is coated with white at the shoulders. Don't dismiss it with a shoulder shrug. And don't for one moment think that a mere brushing (of said shoulders) will help. There'll be more where the white flakes came from, unless you get right down to the root of the evil.

Because dandruff has become such a common thing is no reason for excusing it. In fact, it should be a challenge to the woman who is really particular about her grooming. It must be very gratifying to know that you are one of the few who manage to keep the scalp clear of grime and dust and dandruff flakes.

And it really is not very difficult. The average, normal, healthy scalp responds readily to systematic care. But it does take persistence. Don't expect a miraculous change after one treatment. Keep at it. It will be worth the effort, when you do that new black silk jersey to know that your shoulders will never get so much as a stray white flake.

Various Treatments
There are various treatments for dandruff—each accredited with a full measure of success. The oily, infectious type of dandruff, the type that consists of yellowish crusts, is more difficult to treat and sometimes requires the attention of a scalp specialist.

The flaky, powdery white dandruff which usually signifies a dry scalp condition and lack of natural oil is invariably benefited by brushing and oil treatments preceding the shampoo. Anyway, it isn't the least bit premature to be thinking of doing something about dandruff. No time like the present. (Copyright, 1937)

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. FARRINGTON
Campanula isophylla is a glorious house plant with white or blue flowers, which is not grown as often as its merit warrants. It is mentioned now because small plants may often be obtained at the florist shops at this season. If these plants are given good care they will grow rapidly and soon become large enough to "bloom." The plants have a somewhat pendant habit and therefore do particularly well when used in hanging pots. They can be grown on a window ledge, however, or on a small table and may be expected to increase in size and beauty for several years. (Copyright, 1937.)

Adventures of a Missionary

III—Water And Fire
After hearing the sound of running water, the Reverend Henry went to look for it—and in a short while he saw a little brook. It contained cool, fresh water which he was very glad to drink. Tracing the brook, he found it trickled from a spring.

He threw his arm around the goat. When night came, he slept in a cave, but it was too damp there, so he started to build a hut. The framework was made of sticks which he cut from trees, and the outside was covered with bulrushes which he found growing in a pond. The task took three days, but it was worth the trouble, for now he had fairly good shelter.

Oysters were his main food for a time, but a trip some distance from the shore led him to a clump of wild palms. The heart of each palm was "as thick as a man's wrist, and about a foot long." He knew it would taste good if roasted in the ashes of a fire.

For a time he could not do any roasting, for he had no matches with which to light a fire. Neither did he have flint-and-steel to use in striking sparks.

Having seen the Maoris make fire by rubbing sticks together, he tried it. Here is his own story of what happened:

"I gathered some very dry ferns and small, resinous twigs. I rubbed two pieces of wood slowly at first. The wood began to smell of burning, and white smoke curled upward. I quickened my motion, and rubbed till my arm ached, perhaps 20 minutes. All I obtained was smoke and the smell of fire.

I was about to give up in despair when one of the tiny shavings became a living spark. I gently shook it upon the dry fern, wrapped the fern in fir twigs, and waved the little bundle around my head until it burst into flame. This fire, I never allowed to go out. In addition, I dug a hole in the middle of the ground under my roof, and always kept it filled with hot embers."

About noon one day, while lying in his hut, he heard the noise of animals running over the grass six goats browsing on some bushes beside a pool of water.

Creeping toward the goats, Henry got fairly close to them before they saw him. Then they ran away—all except one which leapt to a large stone in the pool, and stood there bleating.

It was a nanny goat, and if it could be captured alive, it might supply milk. The man splashed through the water, and threw his arms around the animal. For a moment, he believed it was his prisoner, but it "gave a sudden plunge," and he lost his hold. Reaching the bank, it climbed to dry land, and bounded up the rocks.

Buck-Passing Has Become Favorite Indoor Sport

BY DOROTHY DIX
We are becoming a nation of buck-passers. The rugged individualism of which we once boasted so loudly, when men and women accepted the responsibility for their acts and felt that it was up to them themselves to make something out of their own lives, has practically become a thing of the past. We don't even try to stand on our own feet any more. Everybody leans on somebody else until we finally flop down on the government. The national motto has become: "Let George Do It."

In especial has buck-passing developed into the favorite family indoor sport, and if you don't believe this consider some of the manifestations of it with which we have become so familiar that we have almost ceased to notice them. Take marriage, for instance. In the effete past a man did not think that he had a right to marry until he was able to support a family, but that small detail does not bother the youth of today to any considerable extent when a couple of callow school children decide that they cannot live without each other. The mere fact that the boy is jobless and penniless does not deter them from eloping. They just pass the buck to their parents and let poor old Father and Mother work a little harder and sacrifice a few more.

Also, in the past when people married for keeps, and when divorce was considered a disgrace, husbands and wives recognized their individual responsibility to each other. They knew that how a marriage turns out isn't luck. It is how much a man and woman are willing to put into it, how much work they are willing to do, how many sacrifices they are willing to make. And if the marriage failed they knew that they had failed.

But now when a marriage goes on the rocks we never hear either the husband or wife blame himself or herself for the disaster. They don't even admit that they were guilty of contributory negligence. Each passes the buck to the other. The husband doesn't say that he was grouchy and hard to live with, or that he was tyrannical and stingy, or a philanderer. He says that his wife was a nagger, or she got fat, or that she bored him.

The wife doesn't say that she was selfish, or a bad housekeeper, or that she got so absorbed in the child, she forgot she had a husband. She says that he took her for granted, or didn't understand her.

In every divorce case the husband blames the wife for not making him happy, and the wife blames the husband for not making her happy, and neither one blames himself or herself. Passing the buck has justified them to their own consciences.

In former times people who had children thought it was their duty to rear them themselves and to teach them good morals and manners and the principles of right living. Children were disciplined in the home. High ideals were instilled into them. Parents tried their best to light the fires of ambition in their children's souls to rear them to be ladies and gentlemen.

And did you ever notice in a family where there is an old mother or father to be taken care of how the children pass the buck from one to another until finally they lay the burden on the one whom they elect to be the family goat? John can't have Mother come live with him because his wife and Mother don't get along together. Mary can't have her because she has so many children and her house is small. Tom can't contribute to Mother's support because he is buying a new automobile and his children are off at college. And so on and on until they decide it will just be fine for Sally to have dear Mother because Sally hasn't anything to do but to work to support Mother. A grand sport, passing the buck.

DOROTHY DIX

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

PARTIES FOR THE YOUNG AND THE OLDER
Dear Mrs. Post: I have a little girl who will be six years old soon, and a little boy who will be five a week later. As their birthdays are so near together I would like to give a party for both on the same day. But what would be best? I am not exactly sure what I should do about their birthday cakes? Should I have a cake for each?

Answer: I think it would be very nice to give the party on the later date. Have a pair of birthday cakes, one at either end of the table. Or if you are not having the children sit at the dining table, you could put the cakes side by side on a small table. They would of course play games and then each child would have a small piece of each cake and some ice cream.

Dear Mrs. Post: My son and his new wife will soon return from their wedding trip, and as she is a stranger here we would like to give a party for her. An afternoon tea would be the best type of party to entertain more than a hundred people but so many of our friends are apt to find it inconvenient to stop by after a hot day in their offices, and as so many of them go away week-ends, that an afternoon party then would not do either. But could an evening party be equally simple, with people coming and going and the atmosphere friendly? And what do you suggest for the invitations?

Answer: Certainly. A simple evening at home is exactly the same as an afternoon tea except that the invitation is for early evening instead of late afternoon. Usually you write on your visiting card, "To meet Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith Jr., and below your name in the right-hand corner, 'Tuesday evening, Sept. 10, 8 to 10 o'clock.' Or if you want to make the party more important you can of course have the cards engraved.

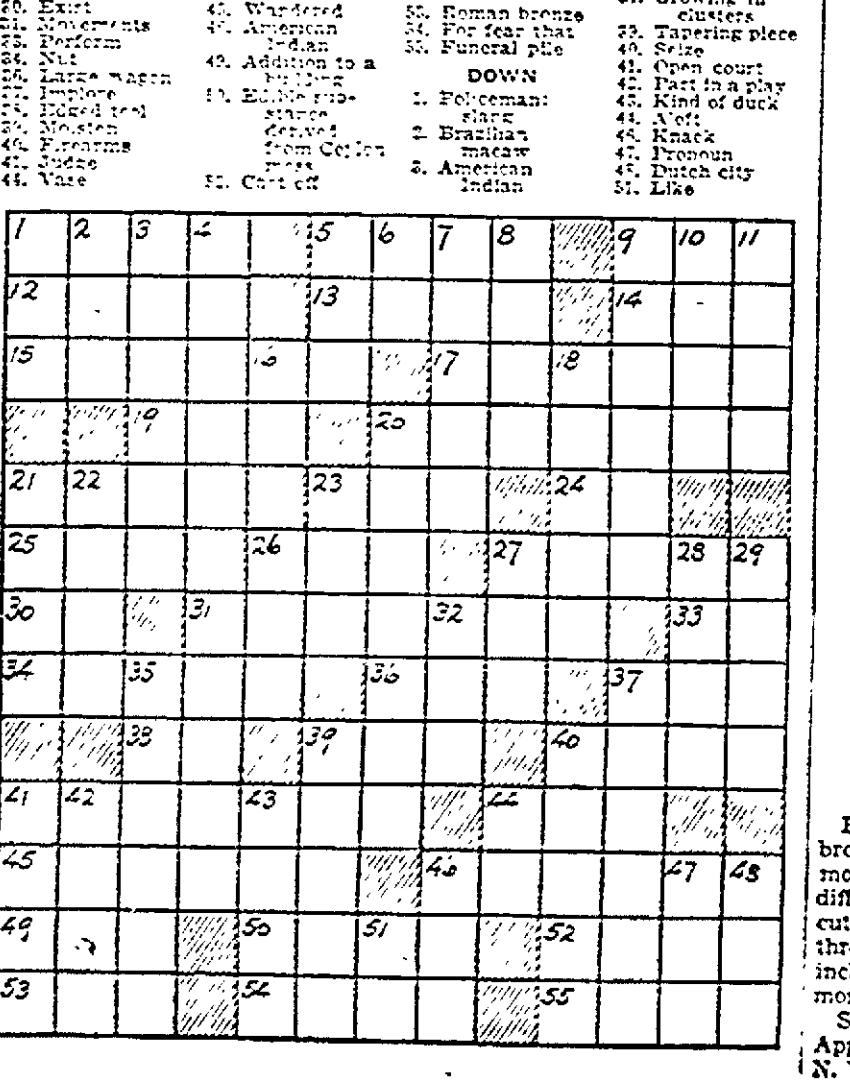

Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Smith and Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Smith Jr. will be at home on Tuesday evening September 10 from 8 to 10 o'clock

Dear Mrs. Post: My grandparents are strangers to most of our friends and I'm wondering what special recognition we can give them at my wedding reception.

Answer: It will be best that they receive with your mother, or at least stand or sit near enough to her where she is receiving to make it easily possible for her to introduce all the special friends of the family to them. And it should also be your father's duty and that of other members of the family to see that they are not neglected and alone. (Copyright, 1937.)

Fishermen's Boat Races Included in Labor Day Events

Expect 10,000 Persons to Participate in Celebration at Neenah

Neenah—Plans for fishermen's motorboat races to be included as part of the program for the Lions club's Labor day celebration were made at a meeting of committees at cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Al C. Hilde Tuesday night.

Menasha Bowling Leagues to Make Plans for Season

Women's Association, Recreation Loop Will Meet Thursday

Neenah—Officers and captains of the 10 teams in the Hendy Women's Bowling association will meet at the Hendy Recreation parlors Thursday evening at the same time the 18-team Hendy Recreation league convenes. Both leagues will make plans for the bowling season.

Dud Verwey, secretary of the men's league, said yesterday that it is important that bowlers attend tomorrow night's gathering at which regulations governing bowling will be drawn up. The league roster determined, and other minor preparations for the opening of the season made.

Because of the state tournament which will be held in the Twin Cities in April, the leagues will be forced to start their schedules as early as possible. Verwey pointed out. The Menasha and Neenah drives where the tournament will be held were inspected a week ago by the alley committee of the Wisconsin State Bowling association.

The Menasha league will hold its second meeting Friday night. At the first gathering last Friday, it was decided to continue with the 12-team plan which was in effect last year.

Although the more zealous bowlers in the city have already started the season, the leagues will not open competition until Friday night, Sept. 3.

Historic Papers are Placed in Wall of New School Building

Menasha—Without ceremony, a box was placed in the wall of the academic wing of the new Menasha High school this morning containing papers and pictures of historical and contemporary significance in the city.

Superintendent F. B. Younger said this morning that the board of education decided not to hold any formal ceremonies and instructed the architect merely to place the box in the recess behind the plaque on the front of the building. The plaque, "To Guide Our Youth," is inscribed on the plaque.

Old newspapers containing stories on the early history of the city, a Commencement program for the year 1873, and other historical data are in the box. It also contains a list of the 1937 graduates and teachers, city officials, pictures of buildings and scenes around the city, and letters and telegrams leading up to the PWA grant which made the new high school possible.

Doty Cabin to be Closed For Season After Labor Day

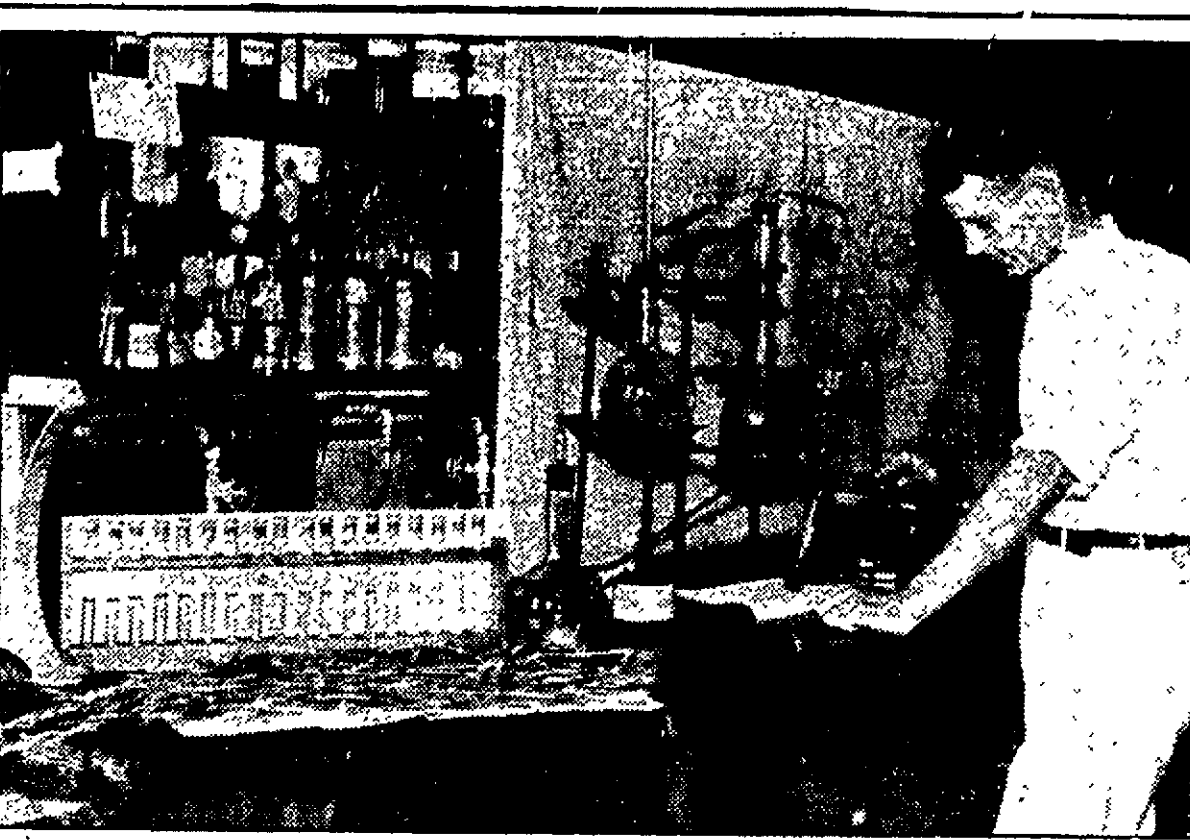

Neenah—Labor Day will mark the closing of the historical Doty cabin in Doty park to visitors until next summer but plans are tentatively formulated for opening the cabin to classes of city school children during September according to Harvey Leaman, Neenah High school instructor who has been in charge at the cabin this summer.

To date, more than 3,200 persons from 33 states in United States have visited the cabin. Last Sunday, Mr. Leaman showed 120 visitors through the famous loggers' where the territorial governor, James Doty, lived during his stay in Neenah. According to records which Mr. Leaman has kept since the opening of the cabin June 14, more than 130 cities have been represented among the visitors who have signed the register. The majority of those persons who came to view the cabin and inspect its furniture have been very interested in the old furniture and older people, viewing old-fashioned spinning wheels and cooking equipment, reminisce about those days "way back when."

Debate Fireplace Site

Considerable controversy has resulted this summer over the location of the fireplace which was taken out of the cabin many years ago. According to recent information secured by Mr. Leaman, the fireplace was located in the corner to the right as one enters the cabin. The Neenah Historical society hopes to rebuild the fireplace in its original form as nearly as possible. Conflicting stories of the site of the fireplace in the home are believed to have resulted from the re-location of the home.

Mr. Leaman has been trying to locate descendants of Governor and Mrs. Doty in order that the history of the Wisconsin governor can be complete. Mary Doty Fitzgerald, Oshkosh, was a daughter of Governor Doty and some investigation is being made in Oshkosh by Mr. Leaman in order to secure more complete information about the family.

SEEK TO CHECK GRASS POISONING AMONG LIVESTOCK

Livestock deaths from Sudan grass poisoning in Wisconsin, on the increase in recent drought years, may be checked by a method of determining poison content developed at the University of Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment station. Frederick Boyd, graduate research student, is shown here making a test at Madison to serve state cattlemen and farmers.

Short, Green Sudan Grass Dangerous for Pasturage

Madison—(P)—Livestock deaths from Sudan grass poisoning can be avoided if farmers heed the rule that only short, dark green plants are especially dangerous, the University of Wisconsin agricultural experiment station announced today.

Not all Sudan grass is poisonous. Only in a brief period of growth will it normally kill cattle. Its lethal effect during that period results from a concentration of cyanide in the cells of the plant.

With these facts established, Professor Emil Truog of the university soils staff and co-workers developed a rapid and accurate chemical method of determining whether a growing crop is "safe" or "dangerous" for pasturage. Frederick Boyd, graduate research student, will make tests free of charge on samples from Wisconsin farms.

"We believe we have solved the problem if Sudan grass growers will cooperate," Prof. Truog said. "Our method combines the best features of all known tests. The test is quickly made and is accurate."

50 Died in 1936.

More than 50 head of cattle died in Wisconsin in 1936 of Sudan grass poisoning. Records in Truog's files disclosed only eight deaths this year, all occurring on one farm near Middleton when a herd of 10 cows broke through a fence.

"Farmers throughout the United States have suffered heavy losses from ignorance of chemical changes in the growing plant," Prof. Truog said. "It is exceptionally valuable to the dairy industry, however, because it produces feed in July and August when other pastures fail, particularly during dry seasons."

Conclusion set forth in the report were based on "practical" experiments in which animals—some fat, others emaciated—were fed on Sudan grass in various growth stages. Veterinarians demonstrated several times, Prof. Truog said, that their antidotes are a "sure cure" if injected in poisoned animals quickly enough.

"It is the short, dark green Sudan grass which is high in cyanide poison and which is dangerous to pasture," the report stated. "Second growth after pasturing or removal of a hay crop is especially dangerous."

"Sudan grass which is one foot or more in height is usually low in cyanide poison and is relatively safe to pasture. Sudan grass short or tall, which is of a pale or yellowish green color, is low in cyanide poison and is relatively safe to pasture."

"Drought probably operates as a factor, largely by keeping the plants small, in which stage they are always much higher in cyanide than when larger."

Good For Hay

"When Sudan grass is dried and made into hay, the cyanide poison content does not change greatly. Since it is usually cut for hay until it reaches a height of three feet or more, there should be little if any danger of cyanide poison in Sudan grass hay. If short grass, high in cyanide content, is made into hay it will be dangerous as a feed."

The experiments showed that cattle, when turned into a field of high poison content, usually stop eating after about 15 minutes due to the formation of gas in the stomach.

"If the animals are not too hungry and are in a high state of vigor, they usually stop eating before they take a fatal dose," the report said. "It is a good plan to watch the herd for an hour or so when first turned into a field of Sudan grass. If some of the animals stop eating, or look around for other food, it is a good sign that the grass is dangerous."

Wife Finds Husband Slain in Home as She Ends Vacation

Chicago—(P)—Returning from a vacation trip to California, Mrs. Katherine Peterson, 24, a bride of a year, hurried from the railroad station to her home last night in keen anticipation of surprising her husband.

Instead of a joyous homecoming she was shocked into screaming hysteria by the sight of her husband's battered body lying in the doorway of a blood-stained bedroom. Nearby was a baseball bat apparently used as a weapon by the slayer.

The bedroom was in disorder, indicative of a struggle between the victim, Mrs. Peterson, 38 and his assailant. Peterson was clad in pajamas. From a large blood stain on a pillow police deduced he was asleep when the slayer struck the first blow.

Mrs. Peterson said she last saw her husband alive July 22 when he departed for Beverly Hills, Calif., to visit her father. Police said neighbors told them they heard Peterson and another man quarreling yesterday morning. Authorities sought him for questioning.

Germany Will Honor Dead American Tree

Berlin—(P)—The American great-grandmother of all the German acacia trees is dead.

In 1710, when acacias were unknown in Germany, this tree came to the court of Frederick I in a pot from America. The King gave it to his minister, Heinrich Rudiger von Hsen, who planted it on his estate. In 277 years the tree mothered hundreds of thousands of others all over Germany. It reached a height of 82 feet.

The trunk is to be preserved as a botanical memorial of the "grand old American lady."

Kane Describes His Journeys at Kiwanis Meeting

Traveler Changes Costumes. Shows Tricks as He Tells of Orient

Neenah—Arthur F. Kane, traveler, journalist and lecturer, told Kiwanians at their noon meeting today of his thrilling experiences while traveling through Asiatic and European countries.

"After You, Marco Polo" was the traveler's subject. He explained to the members of the Kiwanis club that he traveled the route taken by Marco Polo centuries ago.

Mr. Kane said that he traveled by various means a total of 21,000 miles through the two continents. The journey took about 22 months. Relating some of his adventures, he said he crossed the Pacific with a thousand Chinese in steerage, pedaled and pushed a bicycle into inner Mongolia and rode in an outrigger canoe across a shark-infested sea.

While telling of his experiences, Mr. Kane slipped out of one costume and into another, each costume appropriate to the country he was talking about. They were the actual clothes he wore while in the countries he depicted, he said.

He showed the Kiwanians how to eat with chop sticks, how to wind a turban, to charm a cobra, and other Oriental tricks.

2 Fined, Probation Of 2 Is Revoked in Madison U. S. Court

Madison—(P)—Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone imposed a fine and sentence on two men and revoked the probation of two others at an arraignment session in district court yesterday.

He fined Walter Laub, Eau Claire produce merchant, $100 on a charge of having untaxed wine in his possession.

He sentenced H. K. Smith, 21, Sparta, recently released from the Milwaukee County House of Correction for six months on a charge of transporting a stolen automobile from Sparta to Pennsylvania.

Because they refused to live up to the rules of probation, Joseph Lavato, Kenosha, was ordered to serve a sentence of one year and a day for violation of the internal revenue law and Jesse R. Williams, Angelo township, Monroe county, must serve a sentence of six months on the same charge.

BABY BACK HOME AFTER ABDUCTION

Three-months-old Diane Lucas (above), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lucas, reported stolen from her carriage in a busy shopping district on the north side of Chicago, while her mother was inside a store, was found Tuesday on the steps of an apartment building, about four miles from the scene of the abduction.

100 Policemen Search for Abductor After Infant Is Returned Home Unharm

Chicago—(P)—Baby Diane Carol Lucas, reported stolen from her crib today while 100 policemen conducted a wide search for the person who snatched her from a carriage in a busy northside shopping district.

The 3-month-old child, clad in new clothing and wrapped in a white blanket, was found yesterday on the steps of an apartment building 23 hours after she was stolen while her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Lucas, 22, was shopping in a store.

Policemen located the infant four miles from the scene of the abduction after receiving an anonymous telephone call.

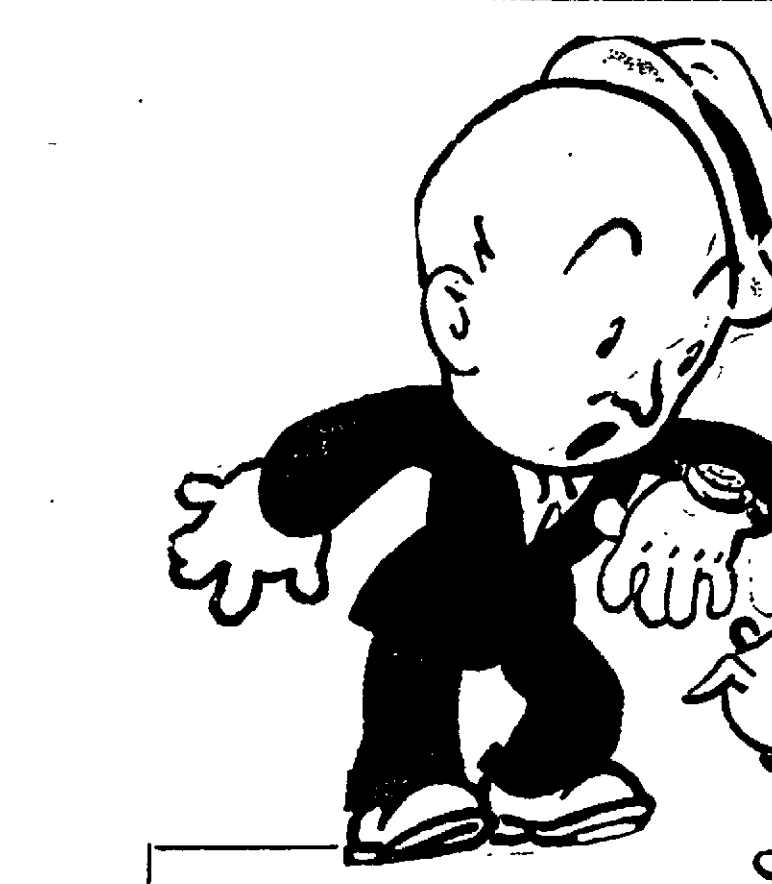

Officers sped the infant to the station where Mrs. Lucas smothered her with kisses and the father, Herman Lucas, 31, embraced both.

Two Rivers Icebergs Invade Kaukauna This Evening

Losing Team Will Be Tumbled Out of First Place Tie

Brewers Hope to Avenge Trouncing Suffered Last Sunday

NORTHERN STATE LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Green Bay	5	2	.714
Kaukauna	5	2	.714
Two Rivers	5	2	.714
Manitowoc	3	4	.429
Kimberly	2	5	.286
Little Chute	1	6	.143

WEDNESDAY'S GAMES
Manitowoc at Green Bay.
Two Rivers at Kaukauna.

THURSDAY'S GAME
Little Chute at Kimberly.

NEXT SUNDAY'S GAMES
Two Rivers at Manitowoc.
Kaukauna at Little Chute.
Green Bay at Kimberly (night).

KAUKAUNA — Either Kaukauna's Electric City Brewers or the Two Rivers Icebergs will be shunted out of the triple tie for first place in the Northern State league when the teams clash under lights here at 8:30 tonight. It will be the last appearance of the Kaws in a scheduled home league game.

Kaukauna will have two reasons for being in top form tonight, and wanting a victory. One is that a win is necessary to remain in the race for the second round bunting while the other is that little affair at Two Rivers last Sunday afternoon. In that game the Icebergs handed the Brewers a 12 to 3 shellacking, which isn't so good for a team that claims it's the best in the circuit.

Carver's Hurl — Of course the Brewers are blaming ineffective pitching for Sunday's defeat but that makes tonight's contest just that much more of a showdown. Carver's hurl will take the mound this evening and if the Brew bats don't pound out a lot of hits and give him a win, providing he pitches his usual ball, last Sunday's alibi will sound terrible.

Other performers on the Kaw squad will be unchanged this evening. "Gabby" Peck will do the backstopping as usual and the umpire bailing, too, while Baldy Egert, the league's leading hitter, will attempt to add a few more points to his total and perhaps hit one out of the lot and take another dollar away from Herman.

Vondrasek will cavort at second base with Hammy Powell at short and Zelinski at third. In the outfield it will be Rader in left, Manager Bowers in center and Joe Vils in right with Kappell a possibility.

Two Rivers, riding on the crest of wins over Kaukauna and Green Bay, will be out to stay at the top of the circuit and perhaps set into a championship playoff. For the 1936 champions to be rank outsiders in the 1937 race will never do as far as the Icebergs are concerned.

Bohne or Fortin — Because Harlan Bohne did pretty well against the Kaws last Sunday he'll probably take the mound again tonight to be rescued by Lefty Fortin, if and when. Or maybe Lefty, who allowed Green Bay just four hits under lights Sunday night, will get the call with Bohne to do the rescue work if the two guys rest isn't enough for Lefty's aging arm.

Other members of the Two Rivers squad will be Puppeter, Catch, Braut, third; Raab, second; Chet Smogoleski, left field; S. Smogoleski first; Helli, right field; Meyer, center, and Kenville, short.

The other game tonight will have Manitowoc playing at Green Bay under lights. The Ships aren't going any place this round but they'd like to knock off the Bays on general principles. And if they do, Kaukauna, which has been tied for the first win will suddenly disappear and the Brewers will be alone at the top of the heap.

Schoepke is slated to hurl for the Ships and Johnny Rowe for the Bays.

Thursday night Kimberly and Little Chute will tangle under lights at Kimberly. Neither team has done much this round but if the Chuters can whip Kimberly or vice versa all will be forgiven and forgotten.

Legless Swimmer Expects to be in New York Saturday

Hudson, N. Y. — Charles Zimm, 45-year-old legless swimmer, attempting to swim non-stop from Albany to New York, lollied in the water just north of here today and said he'd also like to swim the Atlantic in a ship's swimming pool.

Resting in a cave until the ebb tide brings more favorable conditions for continuing the 135-mile jaunt, Zimm said he'd tried the ocean swim but failed because the ship's pool was drained each night.

"And," he added as he cupped his hands beneath his head and bounced around in the Hudson like a cork, "Even I can't swim on the concrete bottom of a dry swimming pool."

The legless New Yorker, father of two children, said his first attempt to swim the Atlantic was made aboard the Queen Mary, on the trip home from a world exhibition swimming tour.

Accompanied by a motor launch from which he is fed all his meals, Zimm said he expected to be in New York by Saturday. When he tires he simply turns over on his back and goes to sleep.

American, City Leaguers Play Third Game Tonight

IT'S DO OR DIE FOR MOOSE SOFTBALLERS TONIGHT

Moose softballers, shown above, will have to crash through with a victory this evening at the Wilson school diamond against the Foresters to clinch the Fraternal league pennant. Last week the teams battled to a tie but tonight Manager Earl Bates promises to toss his hurling star, George Faulk, which almost assures him of a win. Should the Moose lose they will tie with the Y. M. C. A. providing the Y wins its remaining game. Members of the Moose squad above, are, standing, left to right, Wilbur Besch, Duke Decker, Herman Gebheim, Billy Weigand, Dan Heckel and Lawrence Weber; seated, left to right, Richard Murphy, Howard Bowlby, Mr. Bates, himself, J. Murphy and Don Bray. George Faulk, Walter Rhode and Claude Bowlby were missing the night the picture was taken. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

PERHAPS you remember how this guy John Walter up Green Bay way has splattered my "life history" all over his sport page and perhaps you've read some of the cracks he's gotten off about eligible bachelors and all this and that, but folks, have you ever heard the story of the gal whom John startled so badly that she plunked into Green Bay or Sturgeon bay or Lake Michigan or something like that when John asked to see her around down at Chicago about the time of the All-Star-Packer game?

The story, and it's straight, too, is that John has been walking around on air ever since the incident happened. It seems he was on a boat trip up along the peninsula and made the acquaintance of a very comely young lady. Finally John arrived at the point of asking about a date in Chicago during the All-Star game and the gal was so thrilled, or perhaps so star-

Valley Irons Win Over Taverns, 3-1

Branchford and Tesch Engage in Pitching Duel

Valley Iron Works squeezed out a 3-1 win over the Forster Tavern squad in a pitchers' duel at the lighted diamond on E. John street last evening. Branchford hurled for the Valley Iron crew allowing three hits, fanning sixteen batters and walking one while Tesch allowed five hits, whiffed fourteen and passed two.

Forsters put over a run in the first inning on a hit by Ves Gregorius and another by Otto Kirk and held the margin until the fourth inning when the Valley Iron squad went to work and knotted the count on a walk for Priebe, Mortel's fielder's choice and a hit by Paul Grishaber.

Elmer Horn was safe on an error in the fifth inning and was batted in by Norm Kirk for a 2 to 1 lead. Kroiss reached first on an error in the eighth and hits by C. Grishaber and Branchford scored the final tally.

Forster Taverns will travel to New London this evening.

Lutz Rams to Tangle At Pierce Park Tonight

An old rivalry will be continued at Pierce park this evening when the Lutz Coolers tangle with the Fourth Ward Rams. Blick and Hein will form the Lutz battery while Werner and Jacobs will represent the Fourth warders.

Last night the Coolers lost to Greenville, 6-0. Meyer and Sawyer formed the winning battery with Wankey hurling for the losers and De Decker and Hein seeing action behind the plate.

Victory for the Former Squad Will Conclude Series

Team Won First Game on Forfeit. Second by 3 to 2 Score

THE American City league All-Stars will get their third—and perhaps their last—chance to do something about the series with the American league All-Stars when the teams clash tonight at Roosevelt school diamond. The game will begin at 5:30 and another record crowd is possible.

The series started last Friday evening with the game ending in a 9 to 0 forfeit victory when the City leaguers refused to continue play after the score had been tied at 6-all, and there was an argument over a balk and a couple other matters. The final decision on the game wasn't made until Monday evening when the City leaguers decided to accept the defeat providing the series go three out of five instead of two out of three.

In the second game, played last Sunday morning, Stan Tesch hurled and batted the Americans to a 3 to 2 victory. He hurled one of the best games of his career and garnered two singles to drive in two of his team's runs.

Just who will take the mound for the teams tonight is a question except that Bobbie Diener looks like a certain starter for the City leaguers who apparently won't trust any other hurler. The Americans, on the other hand, may toss Branchford or Eddie Mitchell or may again rely on Tesch.

Otherwise the lineups will be something like this:

George Puth Shoots 189 at Trap Tourney

Vandalia, O. — Vic Reinders of Waukesha topped Wisconsin's shooters with 189 of 200 targets yesterday in the North American clay target title race at the Grand American trap shooting tournament. He lost out in the race for honors, however, as three perfect scores were posted.

Dr. O. G. Hinz of Oshkosh shot 197 targets to finish second in his state. Dr. D. C. Hayward, Weyauwega, had 190 of 200.

Wisconsin scores:

R. Schorer, Woodland 197
O. B. Hinz, Oshkosh 197
Vic Reinders, Waukesha 197
Ed Chase, Oshkosh 191

A. H. Fuller, Sturtevant 168
W. Spence, La Crosse 165
W. Warren, Eagle River 157

Puth's score was good for a tie for third in Class E competition.

Claims Max Already Signed To Meet Louis-Farr Winner

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — What the Louis-Farr fight needs most of all is a break from the weatherman. . . . (Which it ain't getting) . . . Western gossips say Bill Terry can go to Cleveland any day the Giants don't want to sign that new 5-year contract. . . . This corner will be surprised if Max Schmeling isn't already signed and sealed to meet the Farr-Louis winner next June.

One New York paper quotes Bill Terry as saying the Giants can't hope to head off the ram-paging Chicago Cubs unless they can take the current "crooked" series. . . . The other day John Downey was

Dorothy Traung Defends Title

Field in Women's Western Meet Will be Reduced to Eight

St. Paul —(7)—Plenty in the way of golfing pyro-technics is in prospect for second round matches in the thirty-seventh annual women's western championships at the Town and Country club here today.

With all the principal favorites surviving first round play yesterday, today's matches will reduce to eight the field seeking the title being defended by Dorothy Traung of San Francisco.

While Miss Traung will be fighting it out with Betty Botterill, Utah state champion from Salt Lake City, principal attention will be devoted to the match bringing together Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City and Marion Milley of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. Hill, a veteran of many an important tournament, Monday won the medalist trophy by qualifying with a course record-breaking 75, and won handily yesterday from Muriel Veatch of Portland, Ore., women's western junior champion, 4 and 4. Mrs. Hill finished in the 18 holes after defeating Mrs. Veatch yesterday and carded an even par.

Paula Parker of Milwaukee has as her second round opponent, Mrs. Ellamae Williams Cutler of Chicago.

Two Wisconsin Women Remain in Golf Meet

St. Paul —(7)—Two Wisconsin women survived the first day of match play in the third flight of the twenty-seventh annual Women's Western championships yesterday.

Harriet Gelatt, of La Crosse, defeated Mrs. Paul Swenson, of St. Paul, 6 and 5, while Mrs. E. C. Holt, Jr., of Madison, defeated Mrs. R. C. Lilly, of St. Paul, 6 and 4.

Three state entrants were eliminated in third flight initial rounds. Mrs. E. B. Flobeck, of Minneapolis, defeated Mrs. George Weinhegen, Jr., of Milwaukee, 5 and 3. Gladys Sines, of Chicago, defeated Mrs. Frank Tully, of Madison, 6 and 4, and Mrs. H. S. Sines, of Chicago, defeated Mrs. J. R. Johnson, of La Crosse, 1 up.

Modern Shoes Annex Second Half Pennant

Modern Shoes annexed the second round title of the Little 4 league Sunday by downing Freedom, 6-1. Natrop worked for the winners and duelled with N. Conrad for five innings. Conrad tired and the Shoes pounded him for three runs in the fifth frame.

A play-off is scheduled for next Sunday between Freedom and the Modern Shoe. The diamond has not been selected.

CYO FIGHTS TONIGHT

THE Y. M. C. A. softball team put it squarely up to the Moose in this race for the Fraternal league's softball championship last evening when it walloped the Eagles, 12 to 5, and practically made certain of a tie for the bunting if the Moose should stumble tonight against the Foresters.

However, Mr. Bates and his Moose club are primed for tonight's game and Bates promises that his star hurler, George Faulk, will be on the mound if he has to buy him off from the Interlake mill for the evening. Last week the Moose and Foresters tangled and along about the time they had to call quits on account of darkness they found that the score was 10-all which made necessary tonight's game.

In last evening's league contest the Y. M. C. A. stepped out to five runs in the second frame and added three more in the third and four in the fourth and then coasted the rest of the way.

Heinie Rammer was the big gun in the Y attack with a double and a homer while Hebel, who with Costigan, pitched a 4-hit game, crashed through with another circuit clout.

New London, Kaukauna Clubs Hold Golf Jamborees Tomorrow

Stunts, Prizes Will be Features Of Day's Events

"Red" Smith Promises to Get to Kaw Party as Soon as Possible

GOLFERS from various Wisconsin cities and down into Illinois will be guests of Kaukauna and New London golf clubs members when the two clubs stage their annual jamboree and guest day programs tomorrow.

The Kaukauna program will be staged at the Kaw's 9-hole course which is considered the hilliest and thereby one of the toughest in the country. The day has a great reputation among golfers and a lot of folks who aren't golfers and a record crowd is expected.

Activities are scheduled to start at sunrise and continue until sunrise the next morning. More than 100 prizes have been rounded up and will be awarded for golf feats and just plain awarded.

"Red" Plans To Come

Richard "Red" Smith, Green Bay, one of the assistant coaches of the Packers, has been invited to take part along with Curley Lambeau and other Green Bay grid celebrities. Red isn't sure when he'll be able to get away because the Packers may drill Thursday afternoon but he has assured sponsors of the event that he'll be on hand at the first opportunity and will take over the job of master of ceremonies.

Committees working on the program are: Advertising, Alphonse Berens and Raymond Morgan; equipment, William Hass, W. F. Weckwerth, Lloyd Merence, and Raymond Nagel; tickets, Carl Hansen and Robert Grogan; finance, Henry Olm and Gordon Mulholland.

Registration, Dr. Albert Leigh, Dale Andrews, William Breier, Haas, Dr. George Boyd, Art Schmalz, and Arthur Look; club house, Marvin Hass, Robert Grogan, Harry McAdams, and William Hass; caddies, Norman Dietzler.

Lunch, Herman Bailer, Fay Posson, Jake Weyenberg, E. A. Kalupa, Harold Frank, refreshments, Frank Robideau, Frank Spindler and Joseph Ditter; stunts, Gene Ditter, William Harwood and Paul Little. Reception, B. W. Fargo, J. B. Delbridge, John P. Kline, Herman T. Runte, Malachi Ryan, C. D. Towles, Lewis F. Nelson and Joseph Wittmann; William Gillen, LeRoy Seifert, Arthur Mongin, Richard Landreman, Lawrence Gerend and George Egan.

Plan Many Stunts
The New London jamboree will be staged at Springvale course west of the city and will feature stunts which will make the inexperienced golfer as good as the fellow who shoots a pretty fair score.

Golfers will shoot 18 holes during the day with nine being straight golf and nine stunt golf. The stunts are being arranged so that they can be removed for the nine holes of straight play. More than 50 prizes have been secured for good golf scores and for goodfellowship.

Committees handling the event are: Publicity and invitations, Tom Fitzgerald, chairman, W. T. Comstock, Jack Burns, Ralph Hansen and Gordon Meiklejohn; prizes, Harold Zaig, chairman, Rudd Smith, Harry Cristy, G. A. Vandree and M. C. Trayer; tournament and arrangements, Gordon Meiklejohn, chairman, Harold Helms, Francis Werner and C. H. Kellogg; refreshments and food, Fred Krause, chairman, Al Krause, William Knapstein and Al Trambauer.

Packers Figure a Guy Named Herb or Paul Will be Hero of That Big Game

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
GREEN BAY—It's only a hunch, and I've been notoriously wrong on some of my hunches, but when that Packers-All-Stars game ends one week from tonight in Chicago a guy named Herb or Paul may be the hero in the Packers' win over the recent collegians. For you've heard a lot about Don Hutson catching passes and you've heard a lot about how Johnny Blood used to receive them, and you know that Johnny isn't with the Bays this season which would naturally leave Don the only receiver. But they've got a young fellow up here who is something of a "find," and when they cautiously remark that he'll catch passes just like Johnny and you realize that he'll be "sprung" on the All-Stars next week, well, maybe—

Trying to get a view of the Packers in drills nowadays takes about as much pull as it used to take to get a drink in a speakeasy. The Bays are being kept under wraps from any and all spectators with a couple big cops chasing the folks around and there are sessions that even some of the newspaper scribes don't hear about until after it's too late. In other words those Bays are working on a dozen or so specials for the All-Stars and they don't want any newspaper men writing yarns about their new stunts.

Work In Secret
So yesterday afternoon when we wandered in on the boys they were all through for the afternoon and had given way to ministrations by Trainer Dave Woodard or to a bit of horse play, such as tossing Ernie Smith's moccasins into the shower which brought a reprisal that saw one of the lads go sailing out of the dressing room door sans clothes, etc.

There'll be a couple more workouts during the week on plays and dummy scrimmage, and on occasions when a certain Chicago newspaper man is actually around the joint, there'll be a couple new plays handed out or worked upon. The said scribe may be all right, but the Packers would rather that he wasn't around just in case he might be too good a newspaper man.

All of which leads up to the fact the Packers are pointing for a win in next week's game and by a score that will leave no doubt in the minds of the folks that the Packers are better than college all-stars. This Herb we mentioned while back is a chap named Banet and he comes from Manchester college, but just where that is no one seems to know. He's a back, weighs over 200 pounds, can run from the left side very well and he catches passes beautifully. So that's why the All-Stars may watch Hutson or some of the better known fellows and give Herb a big evening.

Or perhaps this Packers pass receiver will turn out to be a guy named Paul—Paul Miller. He got his initiation in pro ball last year and since then they've put on a little more weight, runs just as fast if not faster, and has been turning in sensational work at catching a couple times by the All-Star defense and if he is and Herber spots him out there in the open he'll be a headache for Gus Dorais and his assistants.

The Packers have been at their work for a couple weeks now, and they are reaching the peak fast. On the field they're all business, they've cut out the fooling around and are getting precision and coordination in their efforts.

New Men Fit In Well
All of last year's team, except three or four men, is on hand and the thing that pleases the whole crowd most is that the five or six new men are fitting into things as if they'd been around a couple seasons.

Even the announcement that the squad will leave for Chicago next Tuesday morning hasn't bothered the coaches or the players and there isn't a line of worry on the faces of Coach Curley Lambeau, and his assistants, "Red" Smith and the veteran Mike Michalske.

Several of the men picked up bruises and slight injuries during scrimmages recently but they aren't anything to worry about and with further scrimmage banned, the entire squad will be ready for the opening whistle.

Down Chicago way the Tribune, which sponsors the game, went in for a little show of All-Star strength the other day with a picture of one of the big tackles holding a couple backs out at arm's length. So the Bays went the Trib one better yesterday and produced a picture of Don Hutson (one of the smallest members of the squad) showing his strength by holding Tiny Encoberson on the palm of one upraised hand and Frank Butler on the other. The feat left the All-Star stunt so far in the background as to be unworthy of further note.

Another of the other Packers rookies you'll hear mentioned next week is "Zed" Schammel who won all-America honors in 1934 with Iowa as a player guard. He's been a sensation in practices and on all guard and Michalske at the other there'll be an awful lot of power and football sense in the middle of that line.

Darrell Lester, Texas Christian star of 1935, in showing everything

When the Green Bay Packers, national pro football champions, take on the college all-stars in that big game Wednesday night, Sept. 1, the two men shown here from the Fox river valley will figure prominently in matters. At the top is "Swede" Johnston, Appleton, now in his fourth season with the Bays and as hard-working and hard-hitting a back as ever came along. Just yesterday afternoon "Swede" wrecked one of the bucking dummies in his zeal. The fellow on the right is Richard "Red" Smith, assistant coach, formerly of Kaukauna and Combined Curley Lambeau again this season and the fact it's his second year is the best proof that he's a valuable asset.

one would ask as center. He's a power on offense and on defense he's particularly adept at intercepting and knocking down enemy passes. He played with last year's all-star aggregation.

Lyle Sturgeon, a 240-pounder who won a reputation for his work with North Dakota State against Northwestern last year, is a tackle who can play either side of the line. He'll fill Ad Schwammel's shoes and these close to the Bays say he'll make the folks forget Ad in a game or two.

Walter Bartanen is another 240-pounder who is rather unknown in that he hails from Ferris Institute up in the Minnesota iron district. He's a powerful lad who shows promise. Another unknown but who is expected to come through in a big way is Ray Peverson, a half back whom Coach Lambeau "discovered" in that East-West game on the coast last New Year's. He's showing a lot although it may take some of the pro league games before he'll really bloom.

Plenty Of Veterans
There are all kinds of veterans on the Bay squad. Mike Michalske is returning after a year in the coaching business and is assisting with the line and playing. He's commented that he never saw a Packers team looking better so early in a season.

Arnie Herber will do much of the pass pitching for the Bays again, and he'll also call a lot of the signals. Joe Laws will call plays, and tote the leather while Bob Monnett is scampering as well as ever and catching passes and big George Sauer is proving that his interest for the time being is a win over the All-Stars rather than that coaching job at New Hampshire.

Hank Bruder has been steering clear of injuries although blocking as hard and as well as ever and "Swede" Johnston, Appleton's contribution to the club still is the hardest-working, hardest-hitting back in the bunch. In answer to how well Swede was doing yesterday afternoon Lambeau told us to take a look at a badly bent post which was used for a bucking dummy.

"Johnston did that," he said. Mike Gantenbein, the Packers captain, will show at one end and there'll be Don Hutson, Wayne Becker and Bernie Scherer for similar positions.

Frank Butler, moved from center to tackle, is doing very well as are bushy-headed Lou Gordon, Champ Seibold from down Oshkosh way, and Ernie Smith whose only weakness is a bicycle which he rides all over town and badminton in which he wallops the tar out of my pal, John Walter.

Goldenberg At Guard
Buckets Goldenberg isn't being mentioned in the backfield this year for the very good reason he's becoming a crack guard. He and Lon Evans will change places with Michalske and Schammel in the front line.

So all in all it appears the Packers are just about ready for the All-Stars—and for well as ever and they haven't the least of a doubt in view of the "big" game. There's no indication they'll play defensive ball next week and be content with a scoreless tie or something like that. They're going out to win if the attitude around their dressing room and reports from the practice field mean anything.

BERNIE MOORE SAYS

Trap Shoot Title Won By Woman Third Time

Vandalia, O. — (U) — The professional clay target championship of North America was the principal event today at the thirty-eighth annual Grand American trapshoot program, but Tuesday's startling events still provided the big topic.

Mrs. Lela Hall of Strassburg, Mo., made a bit of history by breaking 194 of 200 to win the women's North American clay target title for the third straight time. She was the first woman to turn the trick.

Equally as startling was the fall of Joe Hiestand, Hillsboro, O., farm boy from the championship heights. Hiestand, national clay target champion the last two years and the nation's high average gunner surrendered his crown by breaking but 192 of 200.

Phil Miller, 44-year-old gun club operator of French Lick, Ind., broke 275 in a row to take the throne.

ing to get the beating college All-Stars have been trying to give professional football for the past three years, under the floodlights at Soldier Field Sept. 1.

In 1934, 1935 and 1936, big squads of semi-stars charged into the professionals with high hopes of victory. The best they could do, however, was a scoreless tie with the Chicago Bears in 1934, a 5 to 0 beating from the Bears the next time out and a 7-7 draw with the Detroit Lions last year.

This time, the collegians should connect—probably by air, with the right arm of Texas Christian's Sammy Baugh as the big gun. Moore, head coach of Louisiana's State Tigers, believes.

"This is the best bunch of football players I ever hope to see," Moore said, almost wistfully, after yesterday's practice at Northwestern University's Dyche Stadium.

Down in Louisiana where I come from, we believe in throwing passes. We do throw passes. But nobody ever could throw passes like Sammy Baugh.

"I don't see why he shouldn't set a record for touchdown passes in this game with the Packers," he added with mounting enthusiasm.

"The Packers may score. I suppose they will, but if Sammy doesn't pick up a few loose men and drop the football in their arms for scores, I'm going to be mighty disappointed."

Moore says Baugh can spot a loose man on the field faster than any player he ever saw, and wouldn't be surprised if his own Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State's all-America end, worked himself free to catch a few of the Texas Christian sharpshooter's passes.

Jim Turner Shuts Out Pirates, 1-0, For 14th Victory

Cubs and Giants Play Decisive Doubleheader Today

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer
FORCED by the weather man's lack of consideration to pack their short and potentially decisive series into one afternoon, the Chicago Cubs and the New York Giants today held the esteemed "front and center" position on the nation's baseball stage.

In the natural course of events, a doubleheader is a strain on both contending parties. This bargain bill at the Polo grounds held a threat of becoming no bargain at all to the second-place Giants, who are booked tomorrow for another two games with the Pirates.

But the downpour that pushed the Cubs and Giants into the back-ground yesterday made it so much easier for another baseball hired hand, the Boston Bees' Jim Turner, to grab himself a snatch of lime-light.

Turner, came up with one of the better pitching efforts of a very fine Turner season, shutting out the Pirates, 1-0, on five hits to run his winning tally to 14.

Turner Is Rookie
It's rare for a pitching rookie to do so well in his first trial on the big-time. At 31, of course, Turner is no youngster, but all of his earlier service stripes were gained in the minors.

The big southerner's performance yesterday was enough to overshadow even the fact that the Yankees dropped a 10-8 decision to the White Sox on Tony Riet's ninth-inning double, and that Rudy York blasted three homers and got two other hits while his fellow-Tigers were splitting a doubleheader with the A's.

Four-baggers No. 23 and 24, and effective pitching by Tommy Bridges won the opener for Detroit, 6-3. No. 23 came in a losing cause as the Tigers dropped the nightcap, 9-8.

Roy Hughes' pinch single gave Johnny Damon and the Indians a 12-inning, 4-3 decision over Lefty Grove and the Red Sox, and the Senators made Emil Bildiri's American league debut unhappy by routing the Browns' new pitcher in the fourth and going on to win by 9-6.

Besides the Giants and Cubs, the Cards-Dodgers and Reds-Phils were rained out in the National. All were due for doubleheaders today.

GRAPHIC GOLF

BY BEST BALL

WEIGHT TRANSFERENCE
The player who is afraid to let his body turn in the stroke needlessly handicaps himself. For instance the average golfer, even when he is made to see the virtues of a wide backswing and accompanying body turn, is afraid to adopt such methods because he fears he will miss the ball. He feels with a certain amount of assurance that he can hit the ball if he doesn't move around too much, which means a great deal more to him than taking a big swing and missing it altogether. It's only by a great deal of practice that a player can develop the full use of his bodily powers as applied to the golf stroke. This means that the left hip must turn to the right on the backswing, the left arm must push the club back and up and that the clubhead is in a horizontal position at the top. These motions in a measure are not unlike the winding of a spring, and in this case the spring is unleashed slowly on the downswing, to reach maximum speed at impact. During this process the weight heretofore on the right leg had been transferred to the left so that the clubhead sweeping through continues its smooth, uninterrupted journey onwards and upwards. If a briefer stroke is used, and the weight kept on the right leg as in the above example on the right, the clubhead cuts across the ball sharply which not only robs the stroke of accuracy but power.

Kelly Scores 142 For Medal Honors In National Meet

64 Begin Quest for Amateur Championship At Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. — (U) — Sharpshooters who struggled so hard to win 64 qualifying places in the national amateur golf tournament here tee off today for a battle that will leave only 16 survivors by dusk.

Roger Kelly, a stocky chap from Los Angeles who won the California state title, last week, proved the crack-shot of them all when he captured qualifying medal honors

BADGERS FAIL TO QUALIFY
Portland, Ore. — (U) — Three Wisconsin entrants in the National amateur golf tournament here failed to qualify yesterday. Lynford Lardner Jr., of Oconomowoc, posted 78-79-157. Dick Ashley, Kenosha, had 80-79-159 and Wilford Wehrle, Racine, turned in 81-82-163. A score of 155 or better was needed to get into match play.

with a par-shattering 142. He was a dangerous threat as the first of the day's two rounds of match play commenced this morning.

Kelly, adding a dizzy 70 yesterday to his par 72 of Monday, came within one stroke of equalling the lowest qualifying score in the 41-year history of the tournament.

His 70 was one of the two scored over the twisting, washboard-like Alderwood club course.

Two Tie For Second
Marvin (Bud) Ward of Olympia, Wash., got the other to put him in a tie at 144 with Art Doering, Jr., of Chicago and Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, New York, state champion, for the second best medal score.

Doering, along with Frank Strafaci of Brooklyn, set the pace the opening day with 71 but he slipped to 72 yesterday. Par whipped Strafaci by two strokes, giving 145 and a tie with Billy Bob Coffey of Fort Worth, Texas, for third.

One of the first pieces of business today was a playoff this morning between T. S. Mamison, Jr., of Pittsburgh and Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., for the sixty-fourth qualifying position.

They were tied with 11 others at 155 for the one remaining spot. After three holes had eliminated the rest, Turnesa and Jamison kept even on the fourth. Then they had to stop because of darkness.

All Stars Wallop Yanks, 22 to 12; Score in Every Inning

KIMBERLY—The Cubs took the first game in the playoff series from the Cards, of the Midget league, by a 13 to 5 score Tuesday afternoon at the playgrounds. Most of the heavy scoring was done by the Cubs. In the first two innings when eight runs crossed the home plate. In the fourth frame five more markers came in.

The Cards made their first run in the fourth inning when T. Vander Velden connected with a homer with the bags clear. In the fifth inning two additional scores came in while one run was made in the sixth and seventh frame. Other home runs were hit by M. Vanden Heuvel of the Cards and J. Fieweger and Bud Van Hammond of the winners. Thursday afternoon the second playoff game will be played at the playgrounds.

All Stars Win
The playground All-Stars defeated the Yanks, winners of the junior softball title, 22 to 12. Getting 17 hits off of Van Cuyk, Yank pitcher, the All-Stars scored in every frame making 13 runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings. Van Cuyk also fanned three batters and walked five. Junior Barrand, pitcher for the Stars allowed the losers 16 hits, struck out 1 and walked 2.

During the playground series the champion Yanks won six games and lost two; the Tigers in second place took five wins out of eight starts. The Indians followed in third place with three wins, five losses and the White Sox in fourth place have two wins out of eight tries.

Farr as Tough as His Native Roast Beef; May Surprise Joe

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK — If the rain lets up, shuffling Joe Louis is going to defend his heavyweight championship at Yankee stadium tomorrow night against an old carnival fighter named Tommy Farr, who knows all the dodges and is as tough as his native roast beef. Most everybody seems to think that Louis, the youngest and least experienced champion ever to defend the big crown, will hang one on the Welshman's jaw early in the evening and then call at the pay-off window for the 50 per cent Mike Jacobs has promised him.

There isn't much argument around town except maybe whether the fight will cross the $20,000 necessary to get Jacobs off the nut. Some of the fellows are inclined to think there's going to be a better fight when the income taxers start whacking up Farr's $50,000. If there's any betting, it mainly concerns Tommy's chances of lasting 15 rounds, and so forth. One British enthusiast did cable $500 yesterday to Jack Doyle, the eminent Broadway commissioner, to be placed on Farr's nose at 5 to 1. All this, however, merely is preamble to what this observer really wants to say. — That a lot of people, including young Joe Louis, may be making a serious mistake about this old carnival fighter, Tommy Farr.

Farr is puzzled. It's a little difficult, on the Welshman's record, to understand why he's been sold down the river. Farr,

State League Notes

WITH only three games to go, the second half of the Northern State League pennant race has developed into another blanket finish as three clubs, Green Bay, Kaukauna and Two Rivers are in a triple tie for first place.

Two Rivers, nosed itself into the pennant picture, with a 'man killing' act last Sunday by defeating Kaukauna in the afternoon, 12 to 8, and smacking the Sox down at Green Bay in a night game to the tune of 2-1.

A shake up is due among the leaders tonight as Kaukauna and Two Rivers are scheduled to cross bats in the Electric City while Manitowoc invades Green Bay. Thursday night Kimberly will be at home to the Little Chute Hollanders.

Two pairs of bitter rivals are booked to have it out next Sunday as Kaukauna jaunts over to Little Chute and Two Rivers is slated for an appearance in Manitowoc. Green Bay will play at Kimberly under the lights.

Although confined in a Milwaukee hospital, Mayor Arthur Schuetz, president of the Northern State, continues to hold the baseball reins. Schuetz, it is said, is improving rapidly and will soon again be back at his executive desk.

Little Chute, after dropping six in a row, got back on the win column with a vengeance as they scuttled the Manitowoc Shipbuilders to the tune of 11 to 2. A seven run spurge in the second frame sewed up the ball game.

Eggert, Kaukauna first sacker, took a turn on the mound after Two Rivers had chased Brokop to the showers in the fifth. The veteran initial sack guardian showed speed galore and partly curbed the Icebergs' scoring spree.

After taking it on the chin at Two Rivers, 12 to 8, the Electric Brewers returned home to bump off their old rivals Kimberly, 9 to 4, in a 'starlight' contest. Sonny Car-

There was quite a jangle before the Kaukauna-Two Rivers game for the eligibility of Brokop, Electric City pitcher. Some talk of protest was heard but as Two Rivers scored the victory, the complaint won't be aired.

This hasn't been a usually tough year for the Northern State league umpires. On the whole the arbiters have handled the games in good shape and run-ins with the players or fans have been few and far between.

Business men and city officials have donated the needed funds to send the Kaukauna club, first half winners in the Northern State league, to the Wisconsin baseball tournament in Milwaukee.

When Mr. Wendlandt returned to his car to drive home the dog was missing. After searching for some time the mayor reported the loss to Antigo police and returned home.

Police investigation disclosed that a party from Green Bay picked up the dog from the streets and apparently took possession of it. Whereupon a description of Tim was advertised in a Green Bay newspaper for several days. Tuesday the Wendlandts received word from a Green Bay school teacher that the dog had strayed to her home and gladly accepted hospitality there.

All unconscious of the trouble he had caused, Tim was resting quietly at home again yesterday after his strenuous vacation.

485 Pheasants are Liberated in Wood And Swamp Areas

Freed Near Clintonville, Marion, Big Falls And Embarrass

Clintonville—Four hundred and eighty-five Chinese ring-necked pheasants were liberated Sunday by the Clintonville Fish and Game Protective association, assisted by Warden George Hadland and George S. Whalen. The birds had been banded several days previously by the local members. Serial numbers on the leg bands range from 23,701-B to 24,185-B, inclusive. The birds were crated Sunday morning and taken to swamps and woods in the vicinity of Clintonville, Marion, Big Falls, and Embarrass. Anyone killing or finding the birds is asked to return the leg band to the state conservation department or the local club to assist in their records.

These 485 birds were reared by the Clintonville club, which received 500 day-old chicks about July 1 from the state game farm at Poyette. The chicks were taken to the former Matucak farm one-half mile west of this city, where they were kept in two large electric brooder houses until they were old enough to be placed in pens. The birds grew rapidly and it was necessary to clip their wings several times to keep them from flying over the high wire fences, which had been built around the pens. A few birds did escape in this manner during the last few weeks.

Warden Hadland stated Sunday that he recently found a pheasant, which had been killed by a dog. Upon investigating the serial number on the leg band, it was found that the bird had been released three years ago by John Burnham of Waupaca. Mr. Hadland, who has served for the last year as warden in Waupaca county will be transferred to Brown county on Sept. 1. His position will be filled by George Whalen, who comes here from Outagamie county.

Last week the Clintonville Fish and Game club received a shipment of 1,600 speckled trout from the state fish hatchery at Westfield. The trout, which averaged from 2 to 4 inches in length, were planted under the supervision of wardens in the north branch of the Pigeon river near Marion. Previous trout shipments to the local club have been of the German Brown variety.

The annual meeting of the club will be held Friday evening, Sept. 17, at the Clintonville armory. A fish-ry supper will be held at 6:30, after which the business meeting will take place and the evening will be concluded with dancing. The club of over 1,000 members is now striving to increase its membership to 1,500 for the coming year.

John, Alfred and June Abrahamson, Geraldine Denison and Mac Patterson were Sunday guests at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. L. G. Moland at Osseo. The Molands moved to Osseo from here in June.

fixed the sheriff with an indignant eye.

"We'll be searching for him all right," the sheriff commented grimly. "I just wanted to make sure my hunch about the gun was right. I thought I'd seen your father today. Now that I know you gave it to Gaylor, it clears up a lot, and looks pretty black against him, all right. You probably don't know that he was heard threatening this Scrap Johnson's life before quite a few witnesses?"

"Before—witnesses?" Kay's mind flashed back to the fight on the Mesa, when Ted had told Scrap Johnson he'd kill him if he ever showed up on the range again.

"Yes, Gaylor and Scrap Johnson had a fight at Kelly's one day last week, and Kay got the best of it. Some of the boys who were there say he threatened to get Scrap next time."

With a sick feeling, Kay realized how black the evidence was that was piling up against Ted.

"But that's neither here nor there," the sheriff turned to the door. "The first thing is to join up with Sam Cutter, the Idaho sheriff, and catch the bird. We can save the 'c' once for later. We slipped the gun in his pocket and picked up his hat. 'Sorry to be all this bother, Miss Kay. I've got to be getting on now, but while I'm away you try to remember every single thing you can about this Gaylor'."

"Where are you going?" Kay asked fearfully.

"Over into the Clear Water basin to look up his mother and sister first. Then I'll report to Sam Cutter's deputy and come back by the pass and search around there some more."

"You'll let me know the minute you hear anything, won't you?" Kay tried to keep the desperate anxiety out of her tone. "We have no telephone now, but you could get hold of Babe at the Flying Six, and she'll ride over and tell me."

"Sure I will, Zeke Farley climbed into his saddle and rode off."

Ted's morning sun shone on the glistening dew that outlined the bunch grass in the small clearing on the south slope of the central divide. It tinted the dark green branches of the surrounding pines and tamaracs with golden flecks, and one or two first rays finally searched out the tumbled down shack.

The door of the shack slowly opened and a girl stepped out to lean against the door frame. Her whole attitude suggested intense weariness. As she closed her eyes, her face looked deeply pale in its frame of black hair.

Straightening up, she glanced back through the door, then tiptoed down the two dilapidated steps and walked through the dew-drenched grass to the center of the clearing where the sun was strongest. She took several deep breaths, picked a bit of fire weed and stood idly twirling it.

It was exactly a week since Marion Howell had looked out of her strange abode to find wounded Ted dragging himself toward her. No sooner had she brought him inside, than the storm had broken.

Ted had hovered by the slenderest thread between life and death, and Marion knew that nothing but her care and nursing had saved him. She had thrown herself into the task as a natural human response to the desperate need of a fellow creature and as a welcome escape from her own thoughts and troubles.

Two days before Ted had appeared, Marion's father had brought her to this hut, stacked it with provisions to last if she valued her life and his, she must wait there, in hiding, until he came back.

His wild manner, coming as it did after a mental breakdown, had terrified her into acquiescing. She was entirely in the dark about his reason for this move, but she had suspicions that she hardly dared voice to herself. Deciding it was best to humor him, she had listened carefully to his instructions, and promised to carry them out to the letter.

He had made her swear that on no account would she let there be any sign that the hut was occupied. While it was extremely unlikely that any one would penetrate to the tiny clearing, he wanted her to lie low, if they did, and give the place every appearance of a deserted hut.

He left her a small stove, and a few gallons of oil, which he had packed up, along with the rest of the stuff, on the two pack burros, he had brought with them. Admonishing her on no account to light a fire, he had gone off taking both their horses and the burros, after a scene that made her shudder even now.

It was her promise that had made her hesitate a moment when he had horrified glance had first fallen on Ted. The severe battle she had had to save his life had been her own salvation. Marion realized as the days had slipped by and her father had not reappeared.

There had been no time for thought in the intensive nursing she had had to do. It was not until dawn this morning that the fever had broken, and she had felt any assurance that the battle was won.

From Ted's delirious mutterings, Marion had been able to piece together something of his story. In this close association with a perfect stranger, she had come to be convinced that her first appraisal of him had been right, and that she could wait with confidence until he recovered sufficiently to tell the rest of his story.

As she stood there in the sunshine, she felt her strength gradually returning. She decided that, as soon as Ted should be strong enough to leave, she would go in search of her father, if he was not back inside of the three weeks he had stipulated. She would give him the full time he had asked for.

Building Operations at School Force Postponement to Sept. 6

Shiocton—Because of building operations the opening of Shiocton High school will be delayed one week, to Sept. 6. Enrollment of all students will take place on Monday morning and the students will be dismissed at noon. The afternoon will be used for teachers meetings and organization. The heating system is being overhauled and enlarged to heat the new gymnasium. New toilets and showers are being installed together with other improvements in the building itself which will provide the students of this community with a modern school system.

Teachers remaining from last year are Monroe F. Manley, principal; Leonard Larson, coach and science teacher; Josephine Klidsig, English and Latin.

New teachers will include Arnold Wochos, Algoma in the Smith-Highes Agricultural department; Marion Meikel, Stoddard in the home economics department; and Dorothy Grehn, Ashland, in the commercial department. Miss Heikel and Mr. Wochos have been at work since July 1. One of the largest enrollments of new students in the history of the school is expected.

FAT?Lose 5 lbs. a week Safely or No PayIf you are overweight and flabby, you can lose weight amazingly easy. There is no need to punish yourself with backbreaking exercise — no need to starve yourself and deny your body the foods you need for health.REDUCE by this DRUGLESS method
Thousands of women are getting back to normal weight easily and quickly by using WATE-OFF, a harmless food compound
(no salts, no diuretics, no drugs, no harmful laxatives). WATE-OFF is composed of vegetable and herbal ingredients that neutralize the body acids
— thus preventing accumulation of fat.The instructions say: Take WATE-OFF before meals, then eat your hearty fill. "Results," users say, "are simply amazing." A tablet taken 4 times a day will cause unwanted pounds to melt away like magic — leaving no saggy, flabby or broken-down tissue.
You've seen WATE-OFF advertised in Pictorial Review, Physical Culture and other leading magazines at $2.45 per treatment. Here now is your opportunity to purchase this same full size treatment for only $1.19. Furthermore, if you are not satisfied with the results, you have the privilege of returning the empty carton and we will return your money.2 weeks treatment $1.19

PRESCRIPTIONS
THOSE VITAL VITAMINS

Ever see a Vitamin? No.
Nor have you tasted one. Yet vitamins are present in much of the food you eat and the milk you drink.Sometimes, though, in periods of unusual stress and strain, our systems demand an extra store of these vital vitamins. Then we turn to food concentrates, rich in vitamins.And when you have a prescription compounded — don't forget that we have Five Registered Pharmacists on hand at all times to fill your prescription with the freshest and most potent drugs.

High Blood Pressure can be reduced in many cases and symptoms relieved, says eminent physician

Dr. Frederic Danz, eminent physician of New York City, says that ALLMIN Tablets often help to reduce High Blood Pressure, and that the continued use of these tablets at prescribed intervals helps to keep the blood pressure of the body surface, thus lessening the burden upon the heart. This is only one of the beneficial effects offered by the use of these tablets, says Dr. Danz. To get the full facts, send your name and address, and an extremely interesting booklet of facts and valuable information will be sent you free.
Better still, give ALLMIN Tablets a trial and learn for yourself how much they may help you. ALLMIN
Tablets are tasteless, odorless and guaranteed safe from dangerous drugs of every kind. A large

THE VACUUM CLEANER THAT Purifies AS IT CLEANS!

Bag type cleaners redistribute fine dust and germs back into your rooms through their bags. The Progress has no exposed bag. An amazing invention called the "Germ Trap" filters out and traps every particle of dust and germs to give you "Hospital Sterility" in your home. Naturally cleaning is easier with a Progress for you're not pushing a heavy motor but a light, trim nozzle that literally showerbathes your rugs in air with no harmful brushing or beating on the nap.

See the "Progress" at one of your nearby dealers. Witness "Progress" Cyclone Suction" in action. Measure the value of Progress' light, easy-to-handle attachments with 101 uses. And when you compare all the "Progress" features with those of any other cleaner you will not be satisfied without one. Your "Progress" dealer will be glad to arrange terms to fit your budget.

Announcing...Our New Piano Show Room

Featured at the National Piano Convention last month, the small Grand with a tone of liquid purity found only in selected makes (built by craftsmen who know how to build the smaller Grands) were chosen and are now being shipped to us. Our new piano show rooms on the second floor will be ready next week. Besides featuring these small grands, we will have the medium and larger grands, and the new style small uprights.

Of special interest will be a showing of a small Grand only 4 feet 3 inches long, built by craftsmen under patents to give it a better tone than most larger grands—actually the FINEST SMALL GRAND IN AMERICA.

Naturally you prefer a small Grand to any upright because of TONE, ACTION and APPEARANCE.

We make it possible for you to own a GRAND by eliminating the usual 'trade in' margin.

Announcement of our entire line will be made at a later date.
